RUSSIA'S MISSION. WHICH LIES TURKEYWARD.

PESTH, Oct. 18.—Intelligence from Vienna states that England considers all diplomatic action at Constantinople at an end. This state-ment has produced a very gloomy feeling here, and war is considered unavoidable. BOUMANIA.

Advices from Bucharest state that an agreement has been concluded between Roumania and Russia for placing the Roumanian troops under Russian officers in case of war. SERVIA'S BEST FRIEND.

A correspondent telegraphs an interview with Ristics, the Servian Prime Minister, in which the latter stated that a resumption of hostilities in which Russia will participate is certain. NOTES OF PREPARATION.

London correspondents at different points telegraph as follows: "All Russians in Paris under the age of 40 have been ordered home. The new Russian fron-clad Peter the Great is to leave Cronstadt immediately for the Mediterranean. Russia has issued a circular note announcing that, in the interests of humanity, she feels bound to march troops into Bulgaria and Armenia. There are 82,000 men at the Camp of Bender, and 64,000 around Tiffis." Austria's Eastern policy will conform to that of Russia and Germany.

CONTRADICTED.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The report is contradicted this morning that an agreement had been en-tered into between Russian and Roumania, that the latter should furnish a contingent in the London, Oct. 18 .- The Times, editorially, says: "The hopes we have so anxiously cherished must we fear, at length be abandoned, and we must recognize the fact that negotiations are practically at an end, and the two belligerents, now face to face in European Tur-key, must be left to the consequences of their fate. Another twenty-four hours has brought no relief to the tension under which we were laboring, and events are evidently moving too progress of even telegraphic diplomacy."

BRITISH BLUSTER.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The Daily Telegraph, in a leading article, says: "England, much as she loves and desires peace, must wage war from end to end of the world rather than permit the Russian flag to be hoisted at Constantinople. Lord Derby justly said that for British interests the Eastern question centered in Constantinople, and we hold it clear to all sensible and resolute Englishmen that, at the first overt invasion of Turkish territory, the British fleet, with the assent of the Sultan, should most assuredly cast anchor in the Golden Horn. Tho o whom such a step might appear like help for the Turks may take comfort, for it would be simply an act vital to British security, and ac-complished in the name of and for the protection of British rights. If it were not done, Asia, from Scutari to Shanghal, would know and proclaim immediately that we had abdicated the sceptre of the East, and commerce along all our Oriental lines would live at the mercy of a future Black Sea squadron."

TRANSPORTATION FOR TROOPS. VIENNA, Oct. 18.—It is stated that a convenion has been concluded by Russia with the Roumanian railway companies, by which the Roumanian railway companies, by which the latter engages to make preparation for trans-porting, altogether, 250,000 troops at the rate of at least 25,000 daily. ENGLISH CABINET COUNCIL. LONDON, Oct. 19, 5 a. m .- Late on Tuesday evening summonses were issued for a Cabinet council to be held to-day (Thursday), and sev-eral Ministers arrived in town last night. It is rumored that the Government contem-plates calling an autumnal session of Parliament, in consequence of the grave aspect of the Eastern question. It is also said that the Government has applied to the Lloyds o have ships ready to transport troops. The Advertiser says it is reported that Lord Napier, of Magdala, has been ordered to hold bimself in readiness to take command of the troops which may be sent to Egypt. THE BUSSIAN NAVY.

The Standard prints an imposing table descriptive of iron vessels of the Russian navy. It shows that they are twenty-eight in number, and carry from ten to twenty-six guns each.

THE OBJECTIVE POINT.

LONDON, Oct. 19—5 a. m.—The Standard's dispatch from Belgrade says: "There is some talk of a proposal for an armistice until Dec. 31. It matters little what proposal is made. It is the opinion of well-informed people that Russia is bent on carrying on the war until she gains a clear road to Constantinople. Only the armed coalition of Europe will make her swerve. It is tedious to report this every day, but it cannot be too strongly impressed on Europe that preparations are making in Servia utterly inconsistent with any professions which the St. Petersburg Cabinet may put forth. If Russia means peace the preparations would be insanity."

would be insanity."

ARMY ORDER.

The Times in a leader says: "It is stated that orders have been given by the War Office to the Commander-in-Chief to hold three army corps in readiness for immediate dispatch to the Mediterranean; also that plans for the defense of Constantinople prepared by Royal Engineers have been forwarded to the Admiral commanding the British fleet in Besika Bay."

WAIT AND SEE. The Time states there is nothing but what is ordinary and necessary in calling the Cabinet together at such an emergency. It will be only common sense to await the result of its deliberations before giving credence to less authentic statements. No such measures as these reported can be taken without the consideration of the Cabinet, and the first council since the events took their present anxious turn will be held to-day. For purposes of action at sea we are as near the seat of probable disturb ances as any other. Power. More must happen before English interests are menaced so as to call for our immediate interposition. It is not to be denied that great dangers might arise. We must be prepared to defend all point threatened, but the mere danger of Turkey

WILL NOT PRECIPITATE SUCH MEASURES. Neither Parliament nor the country would ever hear of going to war in behalf of Turkey. She had her opportunities, and has thrown them away. It would be eriminal folly to expend the smallest amount of English blood or treasure in her support.

A Times telegram from Belgrade says the Russians state that a European war will not begin until early spring, when, if necessary, Russia will be prepared to do something in the direction of India. A Berlin correspondent of the Times telegraphs that Turkey seems favorable to an armistice of six weeks, provided Russia does not insist on a dismemberment of the Ottoman Empire. If Russia does, Turkey will let her do her worst. London, Oct. 19-5;30 a. m .- A Paris corre spondent of the Times reports that symptoms of accord between Russia and Germany become more evident, and unfortunate Austria, placed between her tormidable neighbors, must ultibetween her formidable neighbors, must ultimately obey them. The only thing which keeps Russia back is that Austria's neutrality is not enough for her. She wants Austria's co-operation.

France and England are the only Powers that sincerely desire peace, and the Russian programme, which will now be put forward, is one which Turkey would rather fall by the sword than accept. England and France should PANIC IN LON-ON.

LONDON, Oct. 18—12:30 p. m.—At this hour the Stock Exchange is gl. til excited, and it is almost impossible to give accurate quotations. Russian securities have decline 7 per cent, making a fall of nearly 20 within a week. The war between Russia and Turkey is considered as already begun, and it is generally believed that the other Powers will become involved. A commercial and financial crisis in Russia, and a consequent heavy fall in Russian exchange, adds to the confusion.

1.PM.—The funded loan is the only American stock much dealt in, and that feels the influence of the prevailing impression, and is now quoted at 105%@106.

fluence of the prevailing impression, and is now quoted at 105½ (2006.)

The Globe says: "A complete panic prevails on the Stock Exchange. The news of Russia's apparent determination to make war upon Turkey has confirmed the fears which for several days have depressed the market, and culminated to-day in the indiscriminate pressure of the sale of all descriptions of stocks, not only by speculators stimulating panic fears, but by bona fide holders of securities, especially foreign. There was at the opening a further serious decline in quotations, and it was difficult to obtain prices at which bargains could be effected, the fluctuations being so great, and the frequent changes included a reduction of 5 per cent in Hungarian, 1½ in Turkish, 2 in Egyptian, 3 in Italian, and less but considerable decline in all stocks."

During the afternoon stocks railied slightly, but at the official close were lagain flat. The markets continued to decline to the last moment, and the final quotations at 5 o'clock were about the lowest of the day.

Paris, Oct. 18—Evening.—The Bourse has been much agitated throughout, and all stocks closed at the lowest.

VIENNA, Oct. 18—Evening.—An important fall in Government stocks and sharp rise in the exchange and bullion market have characterized to-day's Bourse.

BERLIN, Oct. 18—Evening.—On Bourse to-day Russian securities fell 6 per cent, Hungarian 3, and Austrian about 2½. All other international stocks likewise suffered considerably.

An Imperial decree is published to-day summoning Parliament to meet Oct. 30.

THE FELLING IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The Evening Post, speaking of the war prospects, in its financial column, says: "Looking on the whole situation, however, it is impossible to come to any other conclusion than that the war, even if it is confined to Russia and Turkey, which is hardly among the possibilities, will be all that is needed to thoroughly awaken the dormant industries of this country, and give us a degree of profitable activity in every branch of business, such as has not been seen for many years. So far as the price of gold is affected by the foreign-trade movement, it must be borne in mind that, as respects breadstuffs, one of the great sources of supply for wheat will be cut off, a good part of the wheat which supplies the world coming from Russia; that there will be an enormous demand for our breadstuffs and provisions, in fact, all food products; that there also will be a great demand for coarse manufactures, and particularly for everything that comes under the head of war supplies; that this demand will directly help the transportation lines of all kinds, and will indirectly stimulate every branch of industry. It must not be forgotten, however, that at least a part of what our exports will gain in this way, will be lost in cotton, of which we have an enormous crop this year. Whether the domestic consumption of cotton can be increased, so as to compensate for whatever reduction there may in foreign demand, is another question."

The scenes in the Gold-room this morning have not had a parallel for years. At the opening the operators began to reast willy to the ring, and for the first five minutes gold ran up rapidly, amid the greatest excitement. It had opened at 110½, but before the first minute had passed it had risen, by % per cent advances, to 110½, when it sprang suddenly to 111. During the next minute it had reached 113½. The rates then began to recede slightly, and the shouts became stricks, on one side of the ocean.

The Evening Post has the following: "The warlike rumors from the East, with the probabilities that the European Powers may become involved in Turkey's troubles, had a marked effect on Wall street and the merchandise market this morning, all having been thrown into the greatest excitement. In the Gold Room the scene has been without a parallel for years. Boisterous and excited brokers bid for any amount at almost any price, and purchases which opened at 110½ rapidly carried the price up to 113½. Yesterday morning gold opened at 109½, so that in two days the price advanced fully 4 per cent. So large an advance in so short a time has not occurred since the great panic of 1873. From 113½ there was a fall to 111½, and the price has remained steady between 111 and 112.

"In foreign exchange there was an advance of ½ cent in rates for sterling bills.

BONDS.

"In foreign exchange there was an advance of % cent in rates for sterling fills.

"In the Stock Exchange, United States bonds advanced %@1% per centum, and stocks of all kinds advanced amid excited purchasers, the price ranging from % to 6% per centum, the war being interpreted to mean a greater activity in the railroad business and general trade.

"A prominent grain merchant, when questioned by a reporter of the Post in regard to the probable effect of the European war upon the market for American breadstuffs, replied that definite predictious could be obtained only from a merchant who had been but a short time in business. The older he grew the more ignorant he became concerning the future."

GOLD ORDERS.

It is stated that some cable orders to buy gold this morning were unlimited as to the price, and they were executed in the Gold Room without regard to cost, hence the flurry on the opening of the market.

The PRODUCE EXCHANGE.

The war news created much excitement at the Produce Exchange to-day. The sales amounted to about 500,000 bushels of wheat and about 30,000 barrels of flour. The export orders and joint-account purchases in the grain and provision market are large, and the rise in gold helps this movement. The threatened trouble is a scarcity of tonnage and a consequent rise in freights. The latter already show signs of advancing, especially on steamship engagements.

OCEANICA. OCEAN POSTAL SERVICE. SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 18.—Arrived, Pa-cific mail steamer City of Sydney, from Syd-ney, via Auckland, Kandavan, and Honolulu, bringing the British mails.

A Committee of the New Zealand House of A committee of the New Zealand House of Representatives, to whom was referred the question pending between the Pacific Mail Com-pany and the Colonies of New South Wales and New Zealand regarding the contract for postal service between those countries and San Fran-cisco, reported on the 29d ult., and the following paragraphs refer to the existing contract. The Committee have agreed to the following

First-That it is expedient that the existing contract be modified as follows, viz.: that the Several passengers were arraid to trust the boats, and some preferred to wait for the Captain's boat, which was never launched, as the Captain and all that remained on board

A number of minor casualties are reported during the hurricane, in which the Danenong was lost. The storm was the most severe ever felt on the coast. The steamer City of Melbourne, from Sydney to Melbourne, was forced to return to port badly damaged in her upper works. She had on board a number of horses, which were valued at $50,000 to $60,000, which were killed during the gale.

Special Dispatch to The Tribune.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 18.—Among WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 18.—Among the soldiers in attendance upon the reunien of the Society of the Army of the Tennessee are some gentlemen from Mississippi who have recently seen Gen. McKee, the Republican speaker who was so brutally assaulted. It appears that McKee not only had his head crushed in by a bludgeon from behind and was pulled off the platform, but that after he had been removed to a frail wooden building to have his wounds dressed, more than a hundred rifle-bullets were shot into the building by the Dem-were shot into the building by the Democrats in the expectation of killing him. This little shanty was entirely riddled with bullet-holes. McKev's friends only saved him by making barricades of mattresses around him by making barricades of mattresses around the spot where he lay, which, fortunately, the bullets did not fully penetrate.

The soldiers at this Army Reunion are very much excited at the Southern situation. There is a great deal of belligerent talk among them. Some of the foremost men say with tremendous earnestness that if they should ever take the field again they would follow Sumner's plan and destroy State lines.

destroy State lines.

The Democrats will not be able to sustain their sensational statements as to the concentration of 10,000 troops from the Department of the Alantic at Columbia, S. C., which is made in nearly all the Democratic papers. A staff officer of Gen. Sherman says to-night that such stories are mischievously false, as there are less than 5,000 troops in the entire Department of the Atlantic which are available for any purpose whatever.

MOVEMENTS OF TROOPS.

FORT MONROS, Va., Oct. 18.—Gen. Barry received telegraphic instructions from Washington this morning to send four companies of artillery from this post at once to Columbia, S. C., to report to Gen. Roger, commanding the Department.

THE CAIMBOY FIGHT.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The New York Times'
Charleston dispatch says: "The following account is from an impartial and creditable eyewitness, and may be relied upon as substantially correct. The steamer Pocasin left Charlesat 9 o'clock yesterday to convey a number of Democratic and Republican speakers and their friends to the joint discussion, or "dividedtime" meeting, which had been announced to take place at Cainboy, about twenty miles from this city. Fearing that trouble might occur, it was arranged between Sheriff Bowen and the Democratic leaders that neither party should bring arms on the boat.

The Democratic speakers, Jervey, and Sicker, and O'Conor, the Democratic candidate for Congress, were accompanied by about two hundred members of the Butler Guards and other white men, who carried no rifles, but were well supplied with pistols.

Sheriff Bowen, W. J. McKinley, and C. Gaillard, Republican speakers, had just fifteen of their friends with them.

No trouble occurred during the trip on the river, and the steamer reached Cainboy at noon.
Here the Charleston party was met by a number of negroes, and proceeded quietly to the place of the meeting, where they found 300 or 400 colored men assembled. They had come from all parts of the parish, many of them from wild and remote districts, and most of them were armed with old shot-guns and muskets.

These they placed upon the ground or against trees. A large number of them they laid in the corner of an old building near the speakers' stand. This they did with no purpose of secreting their weapons, as has been claimed, but so that they could easily lay their hands on them when the meeting closed. The guns and

The meeting was opened with the understanding that each party should be allowed two hours for speeches.

Before the regular proceedings, Sheriff Bowen earnestly requested the people to listen to the speakers, and to be orderly and quiet.

Jervey, the well-known Democrat of Charleston, was then introduced, and spoke for nearly an hour without interruption or disturbance of any kind.

He was followed by McKinley, for the Republicans, but had only spoken a few words, when he was startled by a number of negroes crying, "Look out!" McKinley looked around in the direction indicated by the blacks, and then, in a very excited tone exclaimed, pointing to a number of white men who were approaching the arms in the old house: "Those men have got guns. They are going to shoot me and the rest of you!" He then jumped from the stand.

The colored men were greatly alarmed by his words and ran from the meeting-place in all directions, taking their arms with them. Ten or a dozen of the whites secured a number of the guns in the old house and pointed them toward the negroes.

guns in the old house and pointed them toward the negroes.

Sheriff Bowen, seeing this demonstration, called on O'Connor to keep his men quiet. O'Connor tried to do so, asking the white men to lay down their arms. Instead of doing this, however, they went to the other end of the building, and formed a line, and then, without a moment's warning, lone of these white men discharged his gun, and a decrepid old negro fell dead. dead.

Upon this the blacks fled behind trees and bushes, and opened a running fire upon the whites. The blacks displayed most remarkable coolness and took up a favorable position, instead of running wildly and aimlessly about, as they did at Vicksburg, Newgaes, Coney, and wounded friends.

It is not expected that there will be any further organized disturbance, for the negroes have dispersed, and many of them will doubtless seek safety in the woods and swamps; but the whites swear that somebody will have to suffer for yesterday's work. As a gentleman of this city expressed it, "By this time next week there will be at least half a dozen niggers less in the parish."

ALL QUIET.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Oct. 18.—All has been quiet to-day at Cainboy. A small force of armed citizens from Charleston remain in the village, the residents fearing that if this guard is withdrawn their homes will be fired. News received to-night that a company of United States troops are on their way from Columbia to Cainboy causes great satisfaction. The President's proclamation causes no excitement and little comment here.

THREATENED REVOLUTION.

SILLY SCHEME TO DEFEAT THE PROPLE'S election are not what they wish them to be.
This plan is apparently based upon the belief that the twenty-second joint rule is still in force, and that under it the Democratic House could, and that under if the Democratic House could, by the arbitrary will of a partisan majority, reject the electoral vote of any State, and thus defeat the will of the people. This action has for a pretense the proclamation of the President commanding the insurgent rifle clubs in South Carolina to disband. The following statement, which appears in the Baltimore Gezette this morning, the recognized organ of Tilden and Bourbonism in this section shows the purposes of these desperate leaders. The Gazette says: "An informal meeting of leading Democrats was held at the Ebbitt House hast evening to discuss what policy shall be best to adopt to meet this revolutionary move of Grant upon South Carolina doors the section when acted upon for the reason that there we joint rules of the two Houses in the Forty-form congress to suspend. Further examination the records showed that Edmunds was and that the House, in adopting the rules and the thing of the House, in adopting the rules and the House, in adopting the rules. Any plan of conspiracy to elect Tiden to jecting electoral votes at the will of the jecting electoral votes at the will of the Junder this rule must be abandoned. The existing provisions for counting vote of the Electoral College are twelfth amendment to the Counting which makes the President of vote of the Electoral College are the twelfth amendment to the Constitution, which makes the President of the Senate the custodian of the certificates of these votes, and requires him to provide at the joint Convention of both Senate and House to open the certificates, and to declare the result, and the law requiring that these votes shall be counted the second Wednesday of February. It is for Senator Ferry, of Michigan, therefore, to declare what is the voice of the electors of the whole country, and not for the Confederate House to reject any of these votes.

It is possible that a blunder of the Democratic House may have disarmed revolution.

A BRIEF SKETCH OF HIS LIFE AND RECORD.
On several occasions since the holding of the Second District Congressional Convention, THE TRIBUNE has received communications asking for information touching the record and personal history of the Republican nominee for Congress from that district. By a judicious system of asking questions, the personal friends of Col. Davis have been induced to furnish a large number of facts, which are herewith collated.

large number of facts, which are herewith collated.

George R. Davis was born in 1840 in the Town of Palmer, Mass., where for many yerrs his father carried on an extensive manufactory of cotton goods. During his school-days he worked at odd hours in the mills, and became thoroughly familiar with all the details of the manufacture of the Southern staple from the time it entered the "picker" until it came out of the loom, a bolt of cloth. In his seventeenth year he went to the Williston Seminary, at East Hampton, where he femained three years, when he graduated, with the intention of entering upon a college course. Events over which he had no control compelled him to abandon that purpose, and he went into business with his father at Springfield, Mass., where he remained for two years, when he became impressed with the conviction that his country needed his services, in the field. Accordingly he Kingston. In August, 1863, he resigned his Reedsville. While there he was notified by

Gov. Andrew that Massachusetts had afreaty

Sheridan to his new post of duty, and with him participated in the Indian war of 1898-493, and took a personal part in the baitle on the headwaters of the Washita, in which "Black Kettle" was defeated by the late Gen. Custer. After the Indians were cleaned out, Maj. Davis returned to Leavenworth, where he remained till 1971, when he resigned his position and Moved to Chiecko.

Here he accepted the agency, which he still holds, of the Hartiord Life-insurance Company. This corporation has large financial interests in this city and through the Northwest. In 1878, Anding that his time was not wholly occapied in looking after the business of the Hartiord Life, he became a partner in the house of George B. Swiff & Co., in the manufacture of axle-grease. About a year ago he was solicited to accept the Coloneley of the First Regiment; and, through his exertions and personal attention, it has become one of the best-drilled and best-appearing militia organizations in the country.

hest-appearing militis organizations in the country.

While he was in the service the Colonel was a close student. For two years he read law, mainly under the direction of H. D. McKay, now a prominent member of the Bar of Leavenworth, Kan. He has never been a politician, though from the time he cast his first vole. Which was given for Gov. Andrew, of Massachusetts, he has always taken an active interest in polities as a science. He thoroughly believes in the principles of the Republican party, and proposes to vote as he fought, for and with those who saved the Union.

Gol. Davis takes a pardonable pride in his army record. His bearing is that of the thorough soldier, who holds his honor above everything. His friends point to the fact that while in the army he handled millions of dollars worth of Government property and money, and not emphatically the diggest thing of the campaign, and the Republicans here are jubliant over its grandeur.

ELOOMINGTON.

Special Dispetch to The Tribune.

BLOOMINGTON, III., Oct. 18.—The greatest political farce and fizzle of the season was the Cooper meeting held in Bloomington to-day. Sam Cary was advertised to be here and speak. In his stead, at the eleventh hour, came Sidney Myers, of Chicago, whose blatherskite argument has been perpetrated this year before on the Bloomington public. He was followed by Jesse Harper, of Dauville, who at least succeeded in amusing his audience. These orators spoke from the east stope of the Court-House to not over 200. On the platform were seen such blatant office-seckers as John Gilpin, of Tipton, R. M. Guy, H. L. Phillips, and others. At night Harper and Myere addressed a small audience at the Opera-House. The few people who came in from the country to hear Carv are greatly incensed at the deception practiced on them.

CARBONDALE, III., Oct. 18.—The Hon. J. K. Edsall, Attorney-General and Republican candidate for re-election, delivered a line political speech in the Court-House at Marion last evening. The house was crowded, many having to turn away, being unable to enter. Capt. S. G. Parks, of Du Quoin, followed Mr. Eddall in an eloquent address. A torchlight procession was had during the evening of local clubs, numbering about 100 persons in line. Eathusiasm is high, and Hayes and Wheeler reign supreme all over this section.

STEPHENSON COUNTY.

Special Disputch to The Tribune.

FREEPORT, Ill., Oct. 18.—Everything in Stephenson County, politically, looks first-rate. We hear of no family broils or Congressional stews. The Greenbackers have made but little progress with their political verdigris, and the usual big Republican majority will be rolled up in November. Shelby M. Cullom is here to-night, and the Illinois Campaign Glee-Club. We have had a splendid meeting. The Hayes and Wheeler Minute-Men, with torches and a fine band of Music, are making things pretty lively. Mr. Cullom spoke for two hours, dwelling with more than usual force upon the issues of the campaign. distance toward carrying the state of funnois for Hayes and true reform. Every Republican speech made thus far has effectually served in gaining new converts, some of whom were formerly on the fence, and others who had become so morally corrupt that they were respected only by their speciates in the Democrafic ranks. Honce, if the labors of the Republican brethren are attended with such favorable results, it must be admitted even by the most projudiced minds On the other hand, the Democrats have on several occasions secured the services of good speakers, whose eloquence was duly administered, but, owing to its being unaccompanied with the facts, fell worse than fruitiess.

PLANO, Ill., Oct. 18.—We reached here by the way of Yorkville, and found Judge Van Dorsten, of Vandalia, at the latter place. He has been holding a series of line meetings in Kendall County, arousing the Republicans and converting some of the iniatuated Groenbackers. We drove over to Plano, as the day was magnificent, and it gave us a fine opportunity of observing the corn-crop, which, we are glad to say, was good. A committee of the citizens of Plano came out to meet us, and among the number was a brother of Mr. Lew Steward. It is a very singular fact that four of Mr. Steward's brothers should be bitterly opposed to him politically, and are doing all in their power to defeat him.

Arriving at Plano we were escorted to the Arriving at Plano we were escorted to the speaker's stand by thirty-six as lovely young girls as the sun over shone upon.

It was certainly a great compliment to the coming Governor to state the fact that he drew the largest political gathering ever held in this city. Farmers were there from every part of the county, and when they saw and heard the two men who were candidates for Governor they expressed themselves in no uncertain language which way they would vote. The Illinois Campaign Glee Club were on hand, and gave us some grand inspiring songs. The solo of Otis H. Carter, "Vive l'America," set the people wild. One good song, sung as we heard them to-day, is better than two poor speeches.

been sown here to-day which will bring forth much fruit.

This evening G. D. A. Park and Irus Coy are addressing the people, and a torchiight procession is in progress.

THE FOURTH DISTRICT.

Special Correspondence of The Tribune.

Roscor, Hil., Oct. 17.—Last Saturday wight a rather amusing incident occurred at our Town-Hall in the course of an extemporaneous specch delivered by R. P. Porter, of Rockford. The speaker, on being introduced, said: "Coming to Roscoe reminds ine that the Chicago Times, that most detestable of all Democratic sheets, sought out a Roscoe man, James Lercy by name, whom many of you know to your cost." [Here voices from the crowd cried out, "I know him $15 worth;" a second, "I know him $15 worth;" as econd, "I know him $15 worth;" and yet a third. "I know him $150 worth."] The confusion and laughter that followed these parenthetical remarks may easily be imagined. "I was about to remark: "said the speaker "that when the Democratic organs can find no better material to bring up against Gov. Hayes than such dead-beats as James Lercy, they had better hang up their fiddles and let them forever remain mute." This point was fully appreciated in Roscoe, for many of us were taken in by that interminable deadbeat and unmitigated rascal, James Lercy.

ABOUT TOWM.

ABOUT TOWM.

Festerday was another active day at the Grand Pacific Hotel rooms, where considerable effective work was done. The Cook County Campaign Committee have taken charge of Saturday night's rally, and it will be an immense affair. Yesterday morning Messrs. Bogue, Babeeci, Col. Ingersoil, and Architect Boyington visited the Exposition Building, which has been engaged for the meeting. Canvas will be stretched under the roof, and the house so arranged that its acoustic properties will be nearly, if not Ingersolt is satisfied with the arrangements as perfected. clear, powerful, and convincing argument, and held the audience in breathless attention for two hours as he presented in a calm, clear, and impressive manner his arguments for the conmunice of the Republican party in power. It was the best exposition of the financial policy of the party which has been presented its year. The friends of Cooper were made ainly to see the deep.

Special Disputed to The Tribuse.

JOHER, Ill., Oct. 18.—The streets of this city have been ablaze this evening with the light of 1,000 Republican torches. The demonstration was in honor of the Republican victories in Vermont, Maine, Colorado, and Ohio, and was a grand success avecaling the articles the control of the was in nonor of the inephonican victories in very mont. Maine, Colorado, and Ohio, and was a grand success, exceeding the anticipations of the most assembled in the several wards at 70 clock. Torches were distributed, and the main procession formed at the Republican head-quarters by John Lambert, acting as Chief Marshal, assisted by Messrs. E. A. Nattinger, James Walls, Charles Pettigrew, J. C. Lang, and others. The procession was fully one mile in length, and made an imposing display as it marched through the streets. Ninetenths of the men in the line were voters. The Light Artillery fixed a salute during the evening, and headed the procession, which exhibited some unique features, among which were a squad of men carrying axes and a transparency, "We clear the way for Hayes and Wheeler," followed at regular intervals by other squads armed with rakes, their transparency being "We rake in the West for Hayes and Wheeler," and one with pitchforks whose banner was inscribed. "We right in and do our duty for "We rake in the West for Hayes and Wheeler," and one with pitchforks whose banner was inscribed, "We pitch in and do our duty for Hayes and Wheeler." The rear was composed of another squad with brooms, whose motto was, "We make a clean sweep for Hayes and Wheeler." Other transparencies were, "In Hayes We Trust, and Tilden We'll Eust;" "No more Comfederate Majorities in Congress." The delegation from the rolling mill expressed the workmen's sentiments by transparencies which declared that "Democracy Closes Mines and Mills;" "Hayes Elected Means Peace and Plenty;" "Tilden Elected Means Poverty," and others of a similar character.

Another feature of the event was a five dis-

The preparations going on for the turn-out of marching clubs are also on a mammoth scale. It is expected that an immense pumber will be in line. The various factories and trades in the city desiring to join or exhibit their respective industries, such as botler-making, printing, blacksmithing, or other et coteras, are requested to report to Maj. Carroll at the Grand Pacific Hotel by to-morrow evening, in order that they may be assigned positions in line. All the neighboring towns have been invited to join in the tracession, and Eigin, Laporte, Ind., and other near-by places will send large uniformed delegations, with bands of music.

The arrangements had been made by the Democrats for a parade on Saturday evening also. Gen. Cores, who, by the way, is a countrous and always accommodating gentleman, not knowing that the Republicans were going to turn out on the same evening, addressed a polite note to the General Commanding asking the time and aste of the parade. A reply with the information was sent, and during the afternoon Gen. Cores and Mr. J. H. Rae had a brief consultation with Adjt. Gen. Carroll, Dan Shepard, and several other gentlemen interested, when Gen. Cores and Mr. Rae consented to postpone the Democratic turn-out, as it might lead to unpleasant results, leadies making it hard for both parties to procure bands, etc. The change was unade with a hearty good feeling, and the gentlemen at Republican headquarters felt very much pleased with the action of Gen. Corse.

Among the prominent arrivals vesterday were James S. McKee, Clerk of the Supreme Court of the State of Mississippi, and W. H. H. Miller, Indianapolis. Gen. Ben Harrison left for his home in Indianapolis vesterday, accompanied by the hearty good will of all Union-loving men of Chicago.

NATURALIZATION FRAUDS.

It is a very remarkable fact that the Democrats from Kentucky and Wisconsin may not be so easily accomplished, yet at Republican headquarters there is authentic information that the thing will be attempted, and that already the agents o and others of a similar character.

Another feature of the event was a fine display of lireworks from the Robertson House. The Court-House was packed full, every inch of room being occupied by people anxious to hear the speech of the Hon. T. M. Thompson,, of Chicago, who made an address. The affair was emphatically the biggest thing of the campaign, and the Republicans here are jubliant over its grandeur.

WILLIAM DOTGALL, Chairman.

E. B. Sherman will speak in Kankakee this evening. John Wentworth will snlighten the citizens of Naperville to-morrow evening.

DEMOCRATIC HEADQUARTERS.

Those very respectable and eminent fossils who compose the Democratic State Central Computees sat for some five hours yesterday afternoon in their rooms in the Falmer House Their session was, as usual, a star-chamber one. Reporters were excluded, and they were not allowed to know anything of the proceedings. A TRIBUNE reporter questioned one or two members of the Committee about 7 o'clock last evening, after they had adjourned, and the following colloquy took place: lowing colloquy took place:
"What did you do?"
"I don't know."

Did you do anything of interest to the pub-

'I don't know."

"I don't know."

"Bo you know anything?"

"I give it up."

The truth is, the Committee hawed, looked wise, sailed, scratched their heads, said something ought to be done, and then finally adjourned without accomplishing anything, except making a few speaking appointments. And that is the kind of a body the Illinois Democratic Central Committee is. They are regarded with disfavor by their own party, as a set of gentlemen who do not know how to manage a party, even in Illinois, where the Democrats are in a beautiful minority.

THE INDEPENDENTS.

This intellectual and highly-moral organization feels offended because The Tribure has been stating that it is merely an adjunct of the Democratic party, and this wholesome truth is hurting the party of financial reform. Now, the fact is, the gentlemen who have charge of the headquarters at the Tremont House are highly respectable, but, though they may not believe it, for every Democrat who has ideal the organization there are fifteen Repubicans; and some of the Democrats may be seen daily hob-nobbing with some of the Palmer House clique. Besides, the candidate for State Auditor, who is on the duplex-ticket, is working tooth and nail to showe overboard Republicans and make a full Democratic-Greenback fusionicket. If that is not trying to sell out, what

A reporter yesterday dropped in at the Gardner House to inquire after the welfare of the Central Reform Club party, which, it had been announced, would have its headquarters there.
He was informed that rooms had been engaged, but further inquiries elicited the fact that the Reform Club had not been around, and no one supposed to relate to the head of the ticket.

GEN. RABRISON.

In an interview in Tuesday's TRIBUNE with Gen. Harrison, the General was made to say that the Indiana election had been, as a general thing, a fair one. What the General really said was that the Indianapolis election was conceded to be fair. As to the election throughout the State, the General thinks there is no doubt that the Democrats exercised their usual ingenuity in some places in importing, repeating, and intimidating.

A meeting of the Club was held last uight at 267 and 289 Thirty-first street, when a company of Hayes and Wheeler minute-men numbering twenty-five was organized and uniformed. Spirited speeches were made by Judge Sundstrom and the Hon. William Aldrich, and the meeting adjourned until Get. 36. at 7:39 p.m., at the same place, when it will be addressed by Mr. Aldrich, J. H. The preliminary acts of the assembly were characteristic of true Democracy. About So'clock a few Hoxie mon cutered the hall, headed by a shock-headed simpleton named George Hilton, who distinguished himself in the Hoxie Convention by being ignominiously kicked out as a snide delegante. He was then for Hoxie, but when that gentleman was nominated he turned about and opposed him. He must have become reconverted for last night he appeared as an ardent supporter of the man whose faith is in hogs. Hamilton had binacelf nominated by his little crowd as Chairman, and called the meeting to order. Then the other fellows—the auti-Hoxie nem—came in and wanted to know what the meeting was for. The muddled Hilton tried to explain, but he was most mercilessly howled down, and angrily told that he was not the Chairman. He stoutly maintained that he was not the Chairman. He stoutly maintained

A man named Ounningham, backed up by two blowers and strikers from the Stock-Yards, headed the opposition, and the two factions kept up a howling wrangle for at least half as hour, Hilton still keeping the platform. The Stock-Yards bummers howled over to Buck McCarty that Hoxie had paid him $75 for his vote. This started a fresh howl, but Buck, instead of denying the truth of the charge, smited and said nothing. At length the Hon. Thomas Hoyne arrived, and was invited to pour oil on the troubled waters. He advanced to the platform, and took assat. The mob howled for a settlement of the difficulty about a Chairman, and Hoyne kept his seat. Then a young rough from the Stock-Yards, with a greasy black cap and no collar, was boosted onto the platform, and told Hilton to vacate. Hilton said he wouldn't. Then there was more howling. It was kept up for some time, as only a Democratic howl can be maintained. Then a respectable-looking young fellow, with red hair and a gib tongue, Onshan by name, mounted the platform, and, deprecating the disgraceful disorder, appealed to the mob to behave themselves, and asked Hilton to resign. Hilton consented, and his young successor from the Stock-Yards took his place.

Mr. Hoyne was introduced, and after a while succeeded in getting order. He then went on to prove that the Democratic party only could save the country, etc.

As Mr. Hoyne closed a cry went up for Hoxie. But he was not. Then Mr. Onahan was very easily prevailed upon to make a Reform speech, to which the reformed mob, now reduced to a condition of order and quiet, listened with attention.

he was not forthorning. But somebody had kindly provided a pamphlet issued by that sus-picious concern known as the Ante-Beilum Publishing Company, showing four reasons why Hoxie should be elected. They are as follows:

First—He is a thorough Democrat, and sol a Know-Nothing; a stanch supporter of the Constitution, and an inderatigable upholder of the people's rights.

Second—He is the "chosen one" of the people, and not as office-seeker.

Third—Because his heart yearns to alleviate the sufferings of the needy.

Third—Because his heart yearns to alleviate the sufferings of the needy.

Fourth—Because his opponents only abuse him for doing charitable actions with an easier effort than they are accustomed to.

The reason why he must be elected, according to the same authority, is "because it is conceded on all sides that the people are tired of intrusting their interest to the hands of petti-fogging politicians."

Mr. Hoxie will undoubtedly learn, before the 7th of November, that there are several very good and valid reasons why he should not, and must not, be elected, if he does not know them aiready.

DENVER, Col., Oct. 18.—The Hon. Hugh Butler, Chairman of the Democratic Committee, has issued a circular denying the legality of the Hon. James B. Belford's election to the Forty-fifth Congress on the 3d of October, and calls upon the Democrats to vote on Nov. 7. No authority in law being known for the election, the Sheriff did not distribute the poll-books for the Registry Board vesterday, and the judges refused to act. The Democrats then proceeded to elect registers in each ward, and, taking the city poll-books, proceeded to register. The Republicans of course are not registering, and the Democratic programme is to give a color of legality to the election, so that their nominee, the Hon. Thomas M. Patterson, can contest Judge Belford's seat.

THE GREAT UNKNOWN.

St. Louis, Oct. 18.—About noon to-day the Hon. Celsas Price and D. C. Stone, of this city, made a formal demand upon Joseph C. Neidlet, Vice-President of the Board of Police Commissioners, for the unconditional release of a prisoner who has been confined at Four Courts several days under a supposition that he was Frank James, one of the Northfield, Minn. bank-robbers. The demand was based upon what was deemed good evidence that the man is not only not Frank James, but has had no connection with the James boys, and had nothing to do with the robbery. This evidence is greatly strengthened by the opinion of physicians and surgeons, who have made a critical examination of his wound, that his injury could not have been received as long ago as a year. The demand was promptly complied with, and an order at once issued by Mr. Neidlet directing Chief-of-Police McDonough to release the prisoner, and he was immediately taken to the Southern, where he is now stopping. Maj. Rainwater, a member of the Police Board, also joined in the demand upon the Vice-President, he having believed all the time that the man was wrongfully held in dnress. The belief seems to be that the man is Goodman, as he claims to be, and that his story about himself is at least measurably true. He intimates that he will remain here and prosecute for false imprisonment.

Mr. Reed—If what he read was true.

The Court—He didn't say so. You put a complicated question to him, and he answered that legal question in "Yes." When he was asked specifically if he had an opinion he said he had.

Mr. Reed—But he also answered distinctly and emphatically he did not know whether what was read was true, and, if it turned out not to be, he would have no opinion.

The Court—I asked him if he had an opinion, and he said he had.

Mr. Reed—Based upon what he had read if it turned out to be true.

Mr. O'Brien—I would sooner try this case by a mob on the street than by such men. If that is the law, we had better stop the trial and let the mob try it.

Mr. O'Brien—Nobody knows better about that kind of villainy than you.

Thus ended the first tilt between counsel.

DOING SOME BUSINESS.

At the expiration of an hour and a half, Mr. O'Brien secured four who were acceptable to him.—Matthews, who was favorably looked upon Tuesday afternoon, included, he having reported at the opening of the count, and stated that his child was better, and he could serve.

Mr. Reed questioned two of them particularly, and one, who said he had an opinion and was a Catholic, was challenged for cause. The rule worked both ways that time. The other was challenged peremptorify, the remaining two being accepted. These, with the four secured Tuesday, made six jurors,—one-half of the number required,—the result of nearly two and a half days' labor, arrived at after the examination of seventy-four persons, twenty-two of whom were challenged peremptorily, the others, with a rery few exceptions, being excluded under the ruling of the Court, because they had formed opinions from reading the newspapers. In half at hour another one was obtained, and tas minutes subsequently still another, and a sigh of relief went up from the lookers-on. The "second four" were immediately sworn. Half a dozen more were examined and rejection—the old, old story.

a member of the firm of Pitkin & Brooks, No. if River street, was then called and questioned at great length, as it seemed difficult for him to determine whether he had formed an opinion or not. Fisally he said he had, but it could be removed by testimony—he would wait until he heard both sides before he made up his mind.

Mr. Reed said it would be the first time it was ever done in the Criminal Court of Cook County.

The Court—It is the practice in New York State. I can appoint triers here.

The witness, L. Tebin, who owns two crockery stores on the West Side, was then sworn. It testified that, shotrly after the homicide, he was in Prikin's store, and, in conversation, exad him what he thought about the Sullivan murder, and he said he didn't pity him at all—that a man who committed a crime like that ought to be punished—or something like that ought to be punished—or something like that; he couldn't state the exact language.

Mr. Reed submitted that the testimony showed nothing.

Mr. O'Brien contended that it showed that the juror was prejudiced, and the Court excluded him.

Bailiff Whalen looked very sheepish during this little episode.

A recess was then taken till 2 o'clock.

Upon reassembling the examination of jurors was continued, and one after another was challenged for cause under the ruling of the Court. All had read the newspapers and formed opinions, some being fixed, others "transient."

In half an hour Mr. O'Brien and turned them over to Mr. Reed. They were Irishmen. One of them said be would have done the same as Sullivan did under similar circumstances, and was told he could go home. Another was challenged peremptorily. He was a Catholie; had read the papers, but the statements made no impression upon him. The other was held in abeyance.

A dozen more talesmen were put before Mr. O'Brien. He wouldn't have them.

There were but three of the panel left, and, wonderful to relate, they were acceptable to the defense.

Mr. Reed, however, "bounced" one of them. The other two he seemed to be satisfied with, but said he would not pass on them or the other juror until he had "four," under the rule.

The Court said he would order a special venire for thirty more.

Mr. O'Brien—Without going into particulars on the part of the defense, I object to Bailiff Nelson summoning the jurors.

Mr. Reed—Let Smith do it.

Mr. O'Brien—No. We have had wholesale houses again to-day, and we want another bailiff—one who knows that there are other streets besides Bouth Water, and West Lake, and River in Chicago.

Mr. Reed—Only one—Gleeson. You have withheld three or four for them.

The Court—I sent for others, but could not get them.

Mr. Swett made no reply.

The "material" brought in under the special ventre issued Tuesday night and served by Mr. Smith was "fair." There were "good, bad, and indifferent" men among the thirty, and also among the remainder of the fifty-nine of the 100 summoned by Balliff Nelson. Irishmen were conspicuously absent in the first lot, only three appearing; and these were not qualified, two having served on a jury within a year, and the other not being a citizen. This fact caused Mr. Swett to repeat his allegation of Tuesday that something was wrong,—"set up." He,

he took them, and they were sworn.

THE JUNORS.

These additions make eleven of the twelve "good men and true" required. Their names, occupations, and residences are as follows: J. McKibbon, horseshoer, No. 25 Hope street; F. B. Peck, broker, No. 888 West Madison street; H. Von Langen, architect, No. 541 South Union street; J. Hume; A. Kieffer, clerk, No. 315 West Indiana street: Benjamin H. Dobker, porter, No. 328 Hastings street; Joseph L. Gruber, commission merchant, Englewood; Henry P. street; A. F. Rose, carpenter, No. 993 State street.

Their nationalities are: Germans, 3; Americans, 3; Irishmen, 2; Englishman, 1; Frenchman, 1; Scotchman, I.

As to religious belief, three are Catholics, apparently of the liberal independent kind, the others belonging to no church.

In all, since Monday morning, 119 persons have been called. The prosecution challenged fourteen peremptorily, and the defense thirteen. About a dozen were excused because they did not possess the statutory qualifications, while the rest were disqualified on account of their intelligence and supposed bias, engendered by reading the newspaper accounts of the murder. to be doubtful if she will attend the trial. If so, curiosity as to her will remain ungratified. All the witnesses for the prosecution were accessible, but there was no use for them, both sessions being taken up in interrogating jurors. The other will undoubtedly be obtained this morning, and the opening speech of Mr. Reed, on behalf of the prosecution, will probably be made before noon.

came up again, when Frank Porter, who is employed at Blanchard, Borland & Co.'s, was put in the box. He said he had an opinion, and strong evidence would be required to remove it—that his mind was made up at present.

Mr. Reed drew from him that he had an opinion, if what he read in the newspapers was true, but not if the statements were false. Mr. Reed submitted that he was competent, since his opinion was narrely hypothetical, and referred to murder.

The eleven, after being instructed by the Court to let no one speak with them, were taken in charge by a balliff, and kept under surveillance.

The court then adjourned until 10 o'clock this

A QUEER TREASURE HUNT. Supreme Court held that a juror was competent who answered, "I have heard the case all through. If the facts were as I heard them I would have an opinion."

The Court—"Would have an opinion." (To the juror) Hone you an opinion now on the merits of the case!

Mr. Porter—Yes, sir.

The Court—Stand aside.

Mr. O'Brien—Keep that decision.

Mr. Reed—I propose to until the Supreme Court change it.

The Court—If the Supreme Court has ever decided that a man is not entitled to an impartial jury it ought to be overruled by a Justice of the Peace.

Mr. Reed—They decided that the juror is competent. NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 17.—When "war's alarms" sounded throughout the country the first thought of hundreds was, "What must I do with my treasures of gold, silver, etc.?" The usual repository of banks were unreliable; it was impossible to keep it within one's own dwelling, and, in the emergency, burial-places were resorted to as a safeguard from depredat ing and treasure-seeking parties. That this was not as perfect an arrangement as was at first supposed, was proved by the various disasters which befell those hiding such treasures. In some instances the dwellings were burned, land-marks blotted out, and on the return of the competent.

The Court—They decided it upon what was merely a conditional opinion,—if what he rend in the papers was true. If it was not he would have had no opinion.

Mr. Reed—Isn't that the statement of this interf refugee, if he ever returned, it was impossible for him to designate the spot where the buried treasure lav. In many instances the buried treasure lay. In many instances the person died without confiding to any one the whereabouts of such buried articles, and left his heirs and neighbors, who knew that it must be somewhere, but did not know the exact spot, in a state bordering on distruction at the great loss that was, or was supposed to be, sustained. An instance of this kind came up a few days ago in Williamson County. There was a man named John Vanght, who was supposed to have hoarded, before, during, and after the War, a named John Vanght, who was successed to have hoarded, before, during, and after the War, a large quantity of gold and silver, which he had stored away in some secure nook not easily determined upon. The other day the summons came, and old John Vanght passed to his long home. As he was supposed to have a peculiar love for his gains, he was looked upon as somewhat of a miser; but, at any rate, he confided to no one the story of his buried gold. A fever of impatience settled upon neighbor and visitor, and they could hardly wait for the decent ceremonies of respect to be paid the deand visitor, and they could hardly wait for the decent ceremonies of respect to be paid the departed before they would commence the search. The burial over, the search was inaugurated, and furniture was moved and house ransacked without yielding any reward to their labors. Not satisfied with this, the weather-boarding was stripped from the bouse, chimney tore down, and the foundation undermined. Then the yard and farm were dug up until it looked as if an immense crop was about to be planted as if an immense crop was about to be planted without respect to locality or nearness to the almost demolished dwelling. This has been going on for some time, and yet no buried treasure has been discovered. It is worse than the "days of Capt. Kidd, when the Yankees thought there was money hid."

CHICAGO, Oct. 18 .- While traveling in Europe, received a copy of the Chicago Times containing an unwarrantable attack on my professional tegrity in connection with an occurrence which took place during my absence. I returned immediately home to meet the accusations face to face, and brand them as atrocious falsehoods, instigated and concocted by a malignant and professional enemy, who has followed me with unscrupulous persecution for more than ten years. I am gratified to find, however, that the sianderous and libelous charges were promptly met, not only by my own friends, but by the friends and relatives of the unfortunate and innocent woman whose pure life and sacred memory were maligned and traduced to gratify a base and malicious enmity. And I here take occasion to say to the public and my friends that I defy the most searching investigations into my practice of more than a quarter of a century, most of it in this city, to bring a particle of evidence that I have ever violated a single rule of medical ethics or professional moral conduct.

Greenbacks at the New York Gold Exchange yesterday were at the mercy of temporarily insane men, and at one time sold as low as 884. The closing quotation was 894. The prospect of a great war in Europe was the hollow excuse for this successful foray of the gold-bulls.

A serious impediment to the successful operation of the revolutionary scheme devised by JEBE BLACK, and adopted by a council of Democrats at Washington, is found in the fact that the twenty-second joint rule of Congress is not in force, not having been included among the rules adopted by the House at the beginning of the session. For this reason it will be impossible for the Confederate House to arbitrarily reject the Electoral vote of any State, and it will be necessary to concoct some other devilish device for Last evening's cable dispatches bring additional confirmation of the advices of the afternoon, and indicate unmistakably the early precipita ion of active hostilities between Russia and Turkey. Russia has not been idle during the discussion of the armis-tice proposal. Quietly but rapidly she has been engaged in gigantic preparations for the great struggle. Arrangements have been completed for massing an army of 250,000 men upon the Turkish frontier, the Roumanian railway companies having engaged to transport Russian troops at the rate of at least 25,000 daily. England is bestirring herself to be in readiness for her part in the bloody business whenever that part shall have been defined by the unfolding of events. An autumnal session of Parliament is to be convened; the Government has applied to the Laorns for ships for the transportation of troops to the Mediterranean; and three army corps have been ordered to be in readiness for the voyage.

The hog market was active and firm for heavy grades, but light were fully 10c lower. Sales at $5.00@6.25 for inferior to extra. Cattle were dull and weak. Sheep were active and easier. One hundred dollars in gold would buy $111.25 in greenbacks at

The course of the markets yesterday in dicated that the commercial world is at last awakening to a sense of the danger of a general war in the old hemisphere on the Turk-ish question. British and Russian securities are reported to have declined severely under the prospect of increased debt and di-minished resources. The price of one dollar in gold advanced 3 cents as measured in our paper currency. The wheat quotation dvanced 51 cents in this market, and 3@5 cents in New York; mess pork sold 50 cents per barrel higher, and other produce was similarly affected to a smaller extent. The extreme prices of the day were not sustained to the close, but the effect produced was alnost equivalent to a panic for the time being. and many heavy losses were suffered in con-sequence. Holders of securities were forced to sell out at a sacrifice, and parties who were operating on the short side in produce were also heavy losers, some being obliged to suspend in consequence. This unsettling of quoted values is a necessary concomitant of war-excitement in any part of the civilized world. War not only kills off its thousands, but it disturbs the commercial equilibrium of even the noncombatant part of the world. War too often means enormously increased expense, vastly diminished production, much waste of property as well as of life, a derangement of the flow of commerce, ruin to thousands, and profit to a few. The people of the United States may appear to be benefited by a European war; but even to us it would be far from an unmixed good, while it would be in enormous evil to the Powers engaged in Not the least of its evils is the uncertainty which war always causes with regard to the real value of property, and the demoralization caused by the speculation which is always engendered by that uncertainty, wherever men buy and sell.

The war in Europe has commenced. Rusis and Turkey are already face to face, and the diplomatists have ceased their useless work. The London Timessays: "The hopes we have so anxiously cherished must, we fear, at length be abandoned, and we must recognize the fact that negotiations are practically at an end, and that the two belligerents now face to face in European Turkey must be left to the consequen their conduct. Another twenty-four hours has brought no relief to the tension under which we were laboring, and events are evidently moving too fast on the Danube to be arrested by the slow progress of even telegraphic diplomacy." There is no need longer to discuss the possible influence of rmistices or the outcome of diplomatic meetings. Who are the combatants in this war? How long will it last? What will be the result? These are the questions now of urpassing interest.

For the present at least, there are but two combatants in this war, -Russia and Turkey. Russia never would have struck had not Anstria promised to be neutral, with the sure prospect of territorial acquisition. Germany has notified England it can take no part in checking the Russian advance. Italy is neutral, modestly asking for the little slice of can make no move unless Germany does. What England will do remains to be seen. She must define her attitude before long, but it is exceedingly doubtful whether she will do more than render the Turks indirect help by selling them munitions of war-for cash She has no object in sending troops into the field unless the Russians threaten Constantinople, or a general war ensues upon the par-

Russia and Turkey are the only combatants. The war will be a short one, and will not spread beyond its present limits. The Rus-They have gained time by their crafty diplomacy to place their army and navy on a powerful footing, and they are now sweeping down upon Turkey like the resistless marc of destiny. Russian Generals are already in complete command of the Servians. One powerful army is concentrated at Bender, near Odessa, and will move down into Rounania. The other is at Tiflis, on the trans-Caucasian side, and will sweep through Turkey in Asia. The whole Selavonic race is in arms against the Turks, and will make a winter campaign of fearful severity. They can fight in the snow. The Turks are summer warriors. There can be but one issue to the campaign-the overthrow of the Turks, the end of centuries of oppression, torture, and tyranny, the rescue of the Christians, the downfall of the Crescent before the victorious Cross. After this is attained, then what? The partition of the conquered territory. In this lies the danger of a general European war. When the Great Powers come to divide, then Russia, Germany, Austria, Italy, France, and England will put in their claims, and great conflicting interests must be harmonized with the old Eastern question still further entangling the complications. Events have eded far enough to foresee the end ent we can only be thankful that the great power of Russia has interposed to rescue the weak Christian provinces from their powerful Mohammedan oppressors, and that the work will be short and swift. That destiny in which the Turk believes has overtaken hi at last, and the world will rejoice.

The Constitution of the United States provides for the preservation of the public peace, and for the maintenance of law and order, by directing that in case of domestic violence in any State the President, upon the application of the State authorities, shall furnish protection; and the law empowers and requires him to use the army, navy, or militia for this purpose. The Constitution also provides that all persons born in or naturalized are citizens of the United States and are entitled equally to all the politics priviliges and rights pertaining to such citizenship. The Democratic platform adopted at St. Louis declared: "For the Demorracy of the whole country we do here re-affirm our devotion to the Constitution of the United States, with its amendments." The after reciting the Fifteenth Amendr

r shall be committed by one race of the commi

Here, then, is the solemn declaration of the Constitution defining the right of citizens to vote, and their right to be protected in all of devotion to the Constitution and its "amendments," the whole emphasized by gress, denouncing as worthy of "certain, attempt by "force, fraud, terror, intimidation, or otherwise to prevent the free exercise of the right of suffrage in any State."

Now, in South Carolina it is notorious, and is publicly defended as the true policy, that no negro who does not renounce the Republican party shall be hired as a laborer, or in any other capacity; shall not be employed as a house servant, nor as a hotel waiter; as barber, coachman, or mechanic; shall not have any lease for land or for a house to live in; that nothing he has to sell shall be bought, and nothing shall be sold to him; that no contracts for working land on shares or gathering crops shall be made with him; that he shall be excluded recognition except as an enemy of the State; that no white man having any dealings whatever with any negro who shall not renounce the Republican party, or who shall himself be a Republican, shall be recognized socially, or in business. or professionally, otherwise than as an outcast and as an alien in the State. Pursuant to this policy thousands of negroes have been dismissed from employment; have been cut off from all means of earning a living for themselves and families. Here is intimidation and terrorism of the meanest kind,-a form of oppression which would not be tolerated one hour in any Northern State. But this intimidation does not stop here. It includes violence in its most infamons forms. The negroes are largely in excess of the whites in population, and the Re-publican majority in the State at a fair election would be not less than 35,000. The Governor of the State has proved himself the best Governor the State has had since the War. He has been so acceptable to all classes that, until within a short time, it was the roads, and telegraphs, with Brother Moody intention of all parties to re-elect him, without opposition. At the last moment the Democratic Convention yielded to the demands of the extremists that WADE HAMP-TON be nominated for Governor, and that he be elected on the "Mississippi Plan."

The State became at once a camp. The Democrats organized, not as political clubs such as are known at the North, but as "Rifle Clubs," mounted and on foot. The white population from 18 to 60 became an organized army, with its infantry, artillery, and cavalry. Every precinct produced its company or battalion, and each county its regiment or brigade. These men are armed as thoroughly as in the War, and so complete the discipline that any required force can be concentrated at short notice at any point. The afternoons and evenings are devoted to parade and to drill. Wherever there is Republican meeting called, to that meeting a regiment of armed men proceed. They begin by demanding that the meeting shall be a joint one. If 'this be refused, then the meeting is dispersed, and generally with a volley fired into the assemblage. There is only safety for the negro voter and for his family from violence and death is a renunciation of the Republican party and a pledge to aid the whites to elect Hampton Governor and TILDEN President. The war of the Rifle Clubs is especially directed against those colored men who are leaders among their people and who are candidates or likely Legislature. These rarely escape the rifleball or the buck-shot. The end sought by this violence, by this display of military force, by this continuous procession of in-fantry and artillery and the scouting and night-riding of the cavalry, is two-fold: First, to prevent and deter the negroes from voting at all; second, to coerce and terrify them into voting the Democratic ticket. natural to long generations of slavery. They are unarmed, and generally have large families dependent on them for support. these defenseless people the armed minority, most of them veterans of the Confederat

There are five States at the South where in a fair election the Republicans would have a majority of votes. These States are North Carolina, South Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Florida. There are five States at the North where the chances are so uncertain that the Democrats claim to be able to elect their men. These States are Connecticut, New Jersey, Oregon, New Hampshir and California. Now, suppose in each of these five last-named States the HAYES and WHEELER Clubs, instead of bearing torches and trying to get up larger processions, and marching better than the Democrats, should organize as rifle clubs, with rifles, shot-guns, and artillery, and attend every Democratic meeting and disperse it by firing into the assemblage, killing the speakers or some of the auditors, and generally visiting the houses of the Democrats and threatening them with extermination or death unless they agreed to vote for HAYES and WHEELER Would not the President of the United States be recreant to his duty and false to his obligations to Constitution and law if upon the application of the Governors of these States he did not interpose all the force necessary to arrest such murderous proceedings, and to protect the voters in their freedom of choice

army, war in the most cruel and persisten and their right to vote peaceably and free from yiolence or threats of violence? The President has acted in this case South Carolina precisely as he would have had to act did the like circumstances and onditions prevail in a Northern State. He s possibly open to the charge of having delayed interposition beyond a time when it ought to have been done. The work of murder, violence, intimidation, and terror-ism has been largely accomplished; in many sections of the State large bodies of negroes have already enrolled themselves as nonvoters or voters for Hampton; others have fied the country, taking refuge in the swamps and woods. The courts are closed, the Rifle Clubs attending all the sessions an itching their tents in the court-house yards Civil authority is silenced. The Governor's roclamations are laughed at with contempt meetings are held but those of the ds of HAMPTON and TILDEN, and the

In this case the Governor of the State, representing his utter inability to suppress this with care in the presence of the Meth armed and organized resistance to the law, and this domestic violence against the rights and liberties of a majority of the people of the State, has applied to the United States for the protection guaranteed by the Consti-tution. The President has by proclamation ordered the disbandment of these homes, and has ordered a force of the United States troops to the State to preserve the peace, suppress the violence, and protect the people. It is a mistake to suppose that there is anything unusual or extraordinary in the presence of troops in any State. That is a relie of the old secession theory that the United States had no authority to march its troops across a State without the perof the latter. In time of peace the United States troops are part of the police system to preserve the peace, and when necessary to aid in the execution of the laws. The army is employed in the Territories against the Indians, and in the States of California, Oregon, Nevada, Texas, Kansas, or Nebraska for the same purpose. The United States troops are located wherever their service may be needed, whether it be in a State or outside of a State. The troops sent to South Carolina will be withdrawn from some other State or States where they are now sta-

The country at large, and all right-minded men who believe in the preservation of personal freedom, fair elections, and the suppression of armed violence, will cordially ap-prove the action of the President in this case of South Carolina.

THE ROCK-RIVER SUNDAY. At the seventh day's session of the Rock River Conference of Methodist elergymen, held in this city on Tuesday last, a series resolutions was adopted which are, to say the least, profoundly astonishing and astonishingly absurd in this day and generation Had this Conference been held Anno Domini 1640, at Salem, by INCREASE MATHER, PELEC PALFREY, PRAISE-GOD BAREBONES, MEHITA BEL SCUDDER, PATIENCE ALDEN, and other lean and godly saints, these resolution would have been in keeping with their dry juiceless, and marrowless fabric of theology, but that they should have been passed in this goodly and centennial year of grace, rail thundering against cant in his Tabernacle and Brother SANKEY warbling the praises of warm vital piety, and Brother preaching humanity, and great crowds surging into their conventicles without regard t the style of locomotion necessary to get there, must give us cause sufficient to rub our eyes and see if there is not some old woman hanging from the telegraph-pole, or some erring brother branded with a scarlet

Sunday dinner. The Rev. Mr. PARKHURST acknowledge himself the author of this Sunday bill-offare which his brethren solemnly adopted What does he offer us? His first resolution condemns the issuing and reading of secular Sunday papers. Speaking for THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE alone, it brings to its readers the news of the day. It directs the strangers in the city where they can go to church, and what and whom they may hear, without reference to denominations. It is Brother Moopy's earthly medium, which carries his words to the thousands who cannot attend his ministrations. It furnishes its readers in one number with more religious intelligence not a day but a disturbance occurs between than Mr. PARKHURST could find out in a the Rifle Clubs and the Republicans, in year's time. Its columns are open to religious which the defenseless negroes are shot down discussions. It collects what is going on in cords progress, chronicles conversions, advocates contributions to the cause, and in all probability sends many a soul to Mr. PARK-HURST whom he could not otherwise have reached. Second, Mr. PARKHURST pronounced against Sunday trains, which of course would cut off people in the suburbs from coming to church in the city, and trains to camp-meetings on Sunday, which would keep workingmen at home on the only day they can at-tend. Thus sinners who might go to campmeeting and might be saved thereby would be compelled to remain at home and lose the peculiar unction and opportunities of conviction and conversion which appertain to the outdoor ministrations of the camp meeting. Third, Mr. PARKHURST denounce the Sunday meat-market, and by implication would have us understand that there is ruin in roasts, temptation in tenderloins, sin in soup, crime in chops, and contamination in cutlets. The butcher who opens his shop for an hour on Sunday morning imperils his soul. The boy who delivers the meat is on the brink of ruin. The man who buys the mest, the maid of the kitchen who cooks it, and the family that eats it, all share alike in the great condemnation. God help us all, miserable sinners! Worse than this, we must have no milk on Sundays. The unregenerate udder of the conscience less cow must refuse its lacteal bene diction on Sunday. Upon Mr. PARKHURST' theory we must lay in our milk on Saturday, thereby violating the Judaic Sabbath, suf cient to last until Monday, but here another contingency arises. He will not let us have ice on Sunday, and milk will not keep without it. So the milk must sour, the mea must spoil, the fish get tainted, the butter melt, and the refrigerator by Monday morn ing compete upon a small scale with the ren-

Having made us thus uncomfortable, Mr. PARKHURST goes a step further, and would abolish the street-cars. For this resolution however, a substitute was offered depreca ing "the unnecessary use" of the cars on Sunday. What does this mean? Who shall be the judge of what is necessary or unnec essary in street-car locomotion? Mr. PARK HURST's main objection to them is that they furnish means of conveyance for the per ple to leave their own churches and go thre or four miles to hear a star preacher. Is there anything wrong in this? Is it the fault of the public that Mr. PARKHURST may not happen to be a star? Is it a calamity that because his people may happen to think Mr. PARKHURST a dull preacher they take street-cars and go to hear Brother Moody? Will Mr. PARKHURST kindly answer one or two questions? If the street-cars are stopped, how are people to get to church? If it is wrong to run a street-car, it is wrong to run an omnibus, a hack, private carriage, buggy, or bicycle. If it is wrong to ride on Sunday, is it not also wrong to walk? Wherein is one form of omotion more sanctified than another From the general tone of the discussion on the street-car travel we infer that the breth ren only deem those street-cars necessary which convey their special flocks to their pe-culiar pasturage. But this is very conven-ient. It would necessitate Moody cars, Young Men's Christian cars, Pedo-Baptist cars, cool Universalist cars and hot Presbyterian cars, Uniterian cars, Swedenborgian cars; and on passenjaire, and the Wesleyan horses cease the jingle of Methodist-Episcopal bells at Mr. PARKHURST'S door. Meanwhile the children of the world on their various errands of pleasure or duty must hardess the heretical shanks' mare, while the children of light jog merrily past them in denominationbuggies.

There is no field for serious argument with Mr. PARKHURST. If there were, we should ask him if he does not see that he is making Sunday a day of gloom instead of brightn that his asceticism and restriction cannot be enforced except by the passage of laws, and these of so general a character that it would be intolerable for an average human being to live on Sunday; that he himself would probably be one of the first victims of his Draconian code : that the measures he proposes have no connection with vital piety; the laity have so far outrun the pulpit they have no sympathy with it in this regard; and that he is doing serious damage to the very cause he represents. If not, let him take off his denominational spectacles and look about him on this great, busy world through Brother Moony's clear crystal glasses, and he will see that haggling about milk-cans, streetcars, refrigerators, and Sunday newspapers, is not going to save souls from perdition.

CONFEDERATE ACCEPTANCE OF THE AMENDMENTS.

The first resolution of the Democratic and Confederate platform declares the "acceptance" by that party of the constitutional amendments, which it steadfastly resisted until resistance was bootless, "as a final settlement." That declaration, extorted by the spirit of the times from the party of the Rebellion, is the guarantee upon which that party asks to be intrusted with the Administration. The most important of the amend ments is that which guarantees to the freedmen the right of suffrage. How is the Confederate-Democracy accepting that? Are the Rifle Clubs of South Carolina organized o maintain the Fifteenth Amendment, which the Confederate-Democracy accepts, and to ecure to the freedmen the free, peaceful, mobstructed right to the ballot? Are the disfranchisement acts of Georgia and Alabama, disguised as tax-laws, to be taken as showing how they accept the Fifteenth Amendment? And does the "preference" olan of starving the negroes into voting the Democratic ticket, by refusing them employ nent or credit unless they will do so, proc from the anxiety of the Confederate-Demoerats to uphold the amendments "as a final

The fervor with which they accept it was ignificantly indicated in Georgia, where there no "nigger carpet-bag" rule of which to omplain. There, on a full, fair vote, with r shot-guns nor intimidation employed against the freedmen, nor social and bu racism of white Republicans, the State rould be classed as close, and the majority or either side would probably not exceed ,000. But the infamous system of tax Confederates. Not content with their ordipary majority thus made certain, the Con derates at the late election rolled it up to 80,000. How this was done is shown by the eturns from Putnam County. The population in 1870 was 3,016 whites and 7,445 colored. In 1870, the last election at which the blacks were suffered to vote without more or ss intimidation, the vote of the county was: Republican, 1,082; Democratic, 467; and since the average Republican majority in Putnam County was three. That is, only three Republicans dared vote in the count in which they have a majority of not les than 700, and in which the negro population is more than double that of the whites. The shot-gun policy, of which "Gen." M. C. Bur-LEB, of Hamburg notoriety, is the chief exponent in Georgia, did it; and it was by vigor ous execution of that policy throughout the State that the 80,000 majority was rolled up.

What emphasizes this Democratic-Confed rate acceptance of the Fifteenth Amend. nent is, that it is not now, nor at any time since the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment has it been, necessary for the whites to resort to the shot-gun policy to secure the control in the Southern States. By virtue of their superior intelligence, their wealth, their easy ascendency over their foremos slaves, - made the easier by the habit of docile defense of these to the whites, -they could at any time within that period have gained control of the negro vote even against the carpet-baggers as absolutely as did Boss Tweed the vote of any of the down-town But the Confederates prefer instead wards he carried in his pocket. shoot the negro out of politics. That is what they did in Mississippi. That is what they are proceeding to do in Georgia, where, after carrying the State, they go on, as in Putnam County at the late election, not simply to carry it with their shot-guns, but with these to disfranchise the entire colored population. That is what WADE HAMPTON'S Rifle Clubs are organized to do. And that it is which makes plain what the Democrats and Confederates mean by their "acceptance of the amendments "as a final settlement of the late unpleasantness, while for such acceptance they ask to be rewarded by being put in control of the Government. The proceedings of a meeting of grain re ceivers in this city, reported in our columns vesterday, contain matter for grave doubt that our system of State inspection of grain is radically wrong. It is understood that the Committee appointed by that meeting intends to probe the matter to the bottom, and show just how much of wrong is done to the trade by the inspection of grain as at present conducted in this city. When they have accomplished so much, it will then be in order to suggest a remedy. It is sincerely to be hoped that the labors of the Commit-tee, seconded by the grain-dealing and graininterested in the matter, -will be rewarded by a removal of the evils the existence

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will discover that the people think a very "aggressive impress" has been made upon the Republican party, when in Maine and Vermont it was hardly able to hold its last year's majorities, and lost on the vote of 1872. In Ohio Banness barely covers Hayes' majority, with a vote 30,000 larger than last year. The Republicans have lost Indiana hopelessly, and it was a State which the Hayes organs have admitted all along was easential to a Republican triumph in November, and money was poured out like water to win it.—Louiseille Courier-Journal.

The C.-J. is getting to be as careless of facts, and as reckless in statement, as the Tilden organ of the "putrid reminiscence" in this city. There was no election in Vermont last year, but in 1874 the Republican majority was 20,324. This year it is 3,000 larger. Is that "barely able to hold its last majority"? Last year the Republican majority in Maine was year the Republican majority in Maine was 8,872; this year it exceeds 15,000. Is that "barely holding its last majority"? In 1874 the Democrats carried Ohio by 17,203 majority.

Last year the Republicans wrenched the State out of their hands by 5,544 majority, and this year they have nearly doubled that majority on he vote for Supreme Judge, and gave BARNES, their weakest man, 7,500 majority. Does that indicate anything to TILDEN's advantage: It is not true that "the HAYES organs have admitted that Indiana was essential to a Republican triumph in November." The C.-J. can't name one Republican journal which has made any such admission. What they "admitted" was, that Indiana was essential to TILDEN'S election. If HAYES carries Indiana he can be election. If HAYES carries Indiana he can be elected in spite of the Solid South, reinforced by New York and Connecticut. But the Republicans expect to carry New York, and, if they do, HAYES' election is perfectly certain, no matter how Indiana votes in November. But Indiana is not yet lost to HAYES. There is another election to be held in that State before it can be set down for TILDEN. Has the C.J. noticed that the Independents polled 15,000 votes at the late election in Indiana! It is clearly in their power to defeat TILDEN in that State, and the C.-J. does not know but they will do it. HAYES has only to gain sixty votes per county to win the State. We can name a dozen counties where he will gain from 150 to 500 votes on the October election. Indiana has not yet determined to become a tail-piece to the "Solid South." The late contest in Hoosierdoom was the first day at Shiloh, when the Confederates had the advantage, but the second day told a very different story.

COUNTER-JOURNAL OFFICE, MONDAY, 2 o'clock a. m.—A shadowy but startling rumor reaches us that the Republican managers, made desperate and reckless by the unexpected loss of Indiana, on which they confidently relied, are discussing a most astonishing coup. This is no less than the withdrawal of HAYES from their national ticket and the substitution of GRANT in his place. The meaning of this would be revolution. The party of frand and force, feeling itself beaten, knows that its only resort is the bayonet and martial law, rigorously enforced by the man in possession. It is thought by those who are urging this measure that violence can be made to count for more before than after the election, and they argue that nobody but GRANT can carry out the scheme.

We never knew before that sour-mash had that effect on an editorial brain when taken at 2 o'clock at night. We have heard of sod-corn uice, when imbibed in too large quantities causing the apparitions of snakes in men's boots, but it is something new to us that genuine sourmash, allopathically taken shortly before day-light, should cause "shadowy but startling rumors to reach" and pervade the editorial cranium of the astonishingly-preposterous kind described in the above extract. MIKE Mc-DONALD, since he reformed on faro, monte, and brace games, has been extensively adver-tising the virtues and safety of pure Kentucky sour-mash, pledging his word of honor that it was a perfectly innocent amusement, no matter at what hour of the night is was absorbed. But it seems that he has been playing a confidence-game on his customers, for it ap-pears to produce shadowy and startling rumors to reach the head of whoever ventures upon its society at 2 a. m. "Reform of some kind is "manifestly necessary" to pre vent foolishness. Perhaps an antidote might be found in doubling the quantity. We suspect that it was shallow draughts that intoxicated WATTERSON'S brain, and that if he would drin eep it would sober him again, for we assurhim in fraternal sincerity and confidence that Gen. HAYES will "stick" regardless of "coups," of November and enter upon the discharge of his duties on the 4th of next March.

The South Bend (Ind.) Register tries to explain the extraordinary Republican loss that was sustained in that place at the late election.

It gives this as the reason: It gives this as the reason:

South Bend is a manufacturing city, employing many hundreds of workingmen. Since the election of 1872 some of our manufacturing establishments which employ from 300 to 500 men each have colonized large numbers of Polanders and other foreign help. Especially was this the case during 1873 and 1874. They were employed because of their peculiar adaptability to the branches of labor they were employed in, and because they would work cheaper than other help. These men nearly all vote the Democratic ticket. The large proportion of these are ignorant and the easy tools of Democratic politicians, who have made them the special object for political attentions, and have need them to out-vote the settled population of the city and county. This is a fact which cannot be successfully disputed.

The Register thinks the Republicans will do petter at the November election. It says:

our prophecy.

We hope it will come true, as there is no use in talking of carrying Indiana for HAYES unless such places as South Bend do better for him than they did for Gen. HARRISON.

Have not the St. Louis Republican, the Louisville Courier-Journal, and other Confederate papers, punished THE TRIBUNE enough for its article of Thursday morning after the Indiana election, in which that State was claimed for the Republicans? When that article was written as Governor. The signs were all right until about half-past 1 o'clock at night, when the editor thought it was safe to retire to his couch and dream of glorious victory. Between that time and morning the back townships began to pour in with their "gains" for Blue Jeans, which put a new face on the situation. Next day we frankly but sorrowfully confessed that the State was lost to Gen. Harrison. But our amiable contemporaries will admit that had Harrison been elected Governor "the defeat of Tilden might be accepted as an ascer-tained certainty," and also that "the election would have shown that the Democratic party could make no aggressive impress upon the Re publican party." On the hypothesis of Wednes day night, that Indiana had gone Republican THE TRIBUNE's editorial argued correctly tha TILDEN'S chances were hopeless.

The dismemberment of Turkey, which now for the second or third time in this century seems imminent, is by no means an original Russian idea. After the peace of Utrecht, in the early part of the last century, Cardinal Abendon; published a plan "for placing the Turkish Empire under the authority of Christian potentates." It was in effect to extend the dominion of the German Emperor to the mouth of the Danube, including the provinces, to the Balkan; to give Cyprus to Sardinia, Rhodes and Aleppo to the Netherlands, Crete and Smyrna to England, the Negropont (Eubea') to Prassia, Tunis to Spain, Algiers to Portugal, and Tripoli to France, the Azow country and the Crimea to Russia, and to place the Duke of Gortora Emperor in Constantinople. Dr. Wallace, who resigned his charge as minists of Old Grey-Friars' Church and Parish in consequence of having accepted the editorship of the Edinburg Scotsman, has been declared by the Presbytery no longer a minister of the Church of Scotland. This action was taken in accordance with Dr. Wallace's request, and was officially pronounced to be "by his own act." The Literary World announces the appearance of a new English poem on an Irish subject in Boston, and declares that "a more beautiful style, greater grace and purity, more concise strength, and more exquisite felicity of diction, cannot be found in the British poets." But we remember the same critic spoke in the same extravagant way of Gen. Wallace's novel, "The Fair God," which has not yet eclipsed the best efforts of Fielding and Thackersy. The author of the new poem is Dr. Robert D. Joyce, of Boston, well known as student of Irish iterature.

It is a protest against the "weak halting, dog-in-the-manger policy of her Majesty's Government." Mr. Jenkins especially insists that MOODY'S WORK.

THE MEN AND THE MONEY. Any one who had seen Brother Moody sitting in the abandoned saloon-shanty on the North Side holding a small colored boy on his lap, and Side holding a small colored boy on his lap, and trying laboriously, by the light of one tallow-candle to teach the little fellow the parable of the prodigal son, the teacher himself having to stop occasionally to spell out the longest words, and being obliged to skip some of them altogether, would have been surprised to learn that this man was one day to become a Bishop. Bishop Moody! Not with a Diocese in the usual form but with an organized company of the form, but with an organized company of the first evangelists in England and America under his direction, for whose services in speaking and singing he receives applications, and whom he assigns to fields of labor with no less of Episcoassigns to fields of labor with no less of Episco-pal authority than that exercised by grand old Bishop Asbury himself. More than this, and more than Bishop Asbury or any other Bishop ever was, Mr. Moody is personally responsible for the support of these men and their families, whom, by the direction of the Lord and the ex-ercise of a consummate judgment, he calls to his assistance in carrying forward a scheme of evangelistic work which already embraces two great nations, and which he believes will ulti-mately embrace the whole English-speaking world. To some of these men he has paid a regular salary; others share with him in the gits of the people; and still others, who have some other resources, are authorized to draw from his treasury to supply any shortcomings of their own.

some other resources, are authorized to draw from his treasury to supply any shortcomings of their own.

In view of these facts people are inclined to ask two questions. First, How does Mr. Moody get his men? and second, Where does he get his money! Both questions admit of the same answer; the men and the money are sent to him from the Lord. There is a very large class of Christian people who believe that Mr. Moody is a prophet of God, raised up to be the leader of an essentially new movement in the Charch, which new movement has become a necessity from the coustantly-increasing formalism and materialism which have cursed the ordinary methods of religious work. The means of God's Providence are always sufficient for its ends. Thus the necessary funds for sustaining the men required to carry on this new movement are placed in Mr. Moody's hands by devout men and women who feel moved of God to make this disposition of a portion of their wealth.

Mr. Moody asks money of no one but of Him to whom belongs the world and the fullness thereof. As he once said of himself in this city years ago, "God is rich, and I am working for Him."

His methods are partly apostolic and partly

His methods are partly apostolic and partly providential. He has read that the Savior sent out His disciples two by two; therefore, he captures Mr. Sankey as a comrade for himself, and sends out Whittle and Eliss, Needham and Stebbins, and now is understood to be looking out for two musical brethers to icely out for two musical brethren to join Messrs, Moorehouse and Ingliss in a similar dual work for the Lord. Here then is a system, with Mr. Moody at its head, whereby it appears that he already has the substance if not the form and name of an evangelistic, apostolic Bishop. To him seem to be committed also the gifts of the Holy Spirit, for on no human supposition can the crowds be accommitted also the gifts of the Holy Spirit, for on no human supposition can the crowds be ac-counted for which flock to listen to his homely words, or the freedom and gladness with which our oldest and most honored dergy, as well as laity, accept him as a leader in the greatest re-vival movement that any of them have ever seen. "This is the Lord's worl, and it is mar-velous in our eyes."

FARWELL HALL. NOONDAY PRAYER-MEETING.

It is a new thing to see people hurrying along Madison street to the noon prayer-meeting at half-past 11 o'clock. Every seat in the building was occupied yesterday, and standing-room was in request. All over the great congregation were seen the faces of some of our best and most prominent Christian men and women from the leading churches of all denominations in the city,—a congregation which would be a wonder if it were not seen every day.

The hymns were, "Pass me not, oh, gentle

The hymns were, "Pass me not, oh, geathe Savior," "In the cross of Christ I glory," "O, sing of His mighty love," and "My faith looks up to Thee."

The long prayer was by the Rev. Mr. Parl:-hurst; other prayers by Messrs. Moody an I Whittle. Mr. Moody read the thirty-secont chapter of Jeremiah, taking the seventeenth verse as the basis of his remarks on the subject of prayer: "Oh, Lord God! behold Thou hast made the heaven and the earth by Thy great power and stretched-out arm; and there is nothing too hard for Thee."

"We shall meet beyond the river" was sung then the Scripture lesson from the third chapter of Colossians, beginning, "If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God." "Ring the bells of heaven" was heartly given, and then came a most delightful quartette by Messrs. Sankey, Bliss, Stebbins, and Deacon Thair, of Brother Moody's North Side Church:

O, to be over Jordan!
In the presence of the King.

The rich harmony of these four magnificent voices was something very moving of itself, and when to it there was added the thought of heavenly harps and voices and a sight of the glorious face of Jesus, the effect was very suggestive of the place of which they sang.

THE ADDRESS.

THE ADDRESS.

I want to begin just where I left off last night. We had got as far as the thought that our names were written in Heaven. Now let us think of our treasures which are there. Here are the words of Christ himself: "Lay not un to you work the section of the section us think of our treasures which are there. Here are the words of Christ himself: "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal; but lay up for yourselves treasures in Heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal. For where your treasure is there will your heart be also." People seem to think that there are only ten commandments; they forget the eleventh, and a great many others. This text is one of the commandments, and is just as much binding on us as "Thou shalt not steal," or "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain."

There are a great many sad hearts in Chicago, and what is the reason of it? Partly because so many people have been breaking this commandment; they have been laying up treasures for themselves on earth, and the fire has swept it away, or the collapse in real estate has made them poor, or their business has gone away, and they feel as if they had lost all the treasure they possessed. Their hearts are broken because their treasure is gone. Ah! my friends, it don't take long to find out where a man's heart is; it is certain to be along with his treasure. You begin to talk with some men these days and you find their hearts all taken up with politics. You just begin to talk about Hayes and Wheeler or Tilden and Hendricks, and their eyes light up at once. They are full of politics. They think more about politics than they do about heaven. They talk about the election as if it were something of the greatest importance. Why, my friends, perhaps up among the saints and angels they don't even know that there is going to be an election, or if they do know it they don't care anything about it.

There are others whose hearts are given to releasure and you just begin to talk to them

2. That though they did not find any one of the specifications sustained in the sense in which those specifications must be interpreted, yet the testimony evidenced the actual occurrence of events in which the brother was involved, that, taken apart from attending circumstances, would seem to criminate him, but we do not believe that in any one of these cases he was guilty of intentional wrong.

CHURCH EXTENSION.

The Committee on Church Extension presented the following report:

The Church-Extension Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church is a purely missionary organization. Its work is to build the houses in which the people may be grathered for public worship, and in which the Gospel may be preached, and the ordinances administered. No more important agency for spreading the Gospel in our land does our Church employ than this Society. The building of churches is absolutely essential to the permanence of the Gospel work. By means of the aid rendered through this Society, churches are built in numerous places where, without such aid, they could not be erected at all. One-third of all the churches built by the denomination within the eleven years' existence of this society have been aided by it. The past year it has helped to build 200 Christian sanctuaries. In eleven years it has assisted in the erection of about 1, 800 churches, and in that time it has received and disbursed over a million of dollars do the time and the family altar. Every pastor ought to pray and preach in its behalf in the pulpit and seek to scure the largest possible contributions for it, for the cause of church extension is the cause of our country's evangelization, and the evangelization of this country means the evangelization of the world. We therefore recommend that each pastor preach once during the year on the causelof church extension, and take the collection in its behalf as early as possible.

Chaplain McCabe was called for, and delivered a stirring speech, enjoining the brethren to greater effort in this branch of the Lord's service. He was followed by Bishop Harris, who spoke more particularly about the work accomplished in Western fields.

At the conclusion of Bishop Harris' address, the Rev. Erastus Smith was introduced, and addressed the Conference on the work in Utah.

TRANSPERRED.

The following was then adopted:

Resolved, That we have received the notice of the transfer of the Rev. C. E. Felton from our Conference with regret, and that we trust he will be greatly blest in his new field of labor.

Upon the adjournment of the Union, THE BOARD OF THE GENERAL ASSOCIATION went into session, the Rev. Dr. J. Bulkh. Win the chair. The Secretary read the reports of some fifty or sixty missionaries, showing that the work is being prosecuted, and is blessed with abundant fruit.

The financial report came up, and was accepted as showing a more flourishing monetary status than the members expected. The church-edifice fund had been increased to the amount of $2,200 during the past year by donations, and there was reason to expect more before the close of the financial year, which expires Nov. 1. The aggregate amount loaned by the fund through Illinois for building purposes amounted to $12,000. Twenty missionaries had been under appointment during the year, filling forty-five charges. Their efforts had added 300 persons to the mission churches. The debt of the Association was reported at $12,000, a portion of which came over from last year. To meet this, $7,000 or $8,000 had been contributed, of which a large proportion was expended in this month.

The Association was then called to order, and the report of the Board adopted. The question of reducing missionaries' salaries, which was settled affirmatively at the last quarterly meeting, was brought up on a motion to rescind that action.

The discussion was protracted, and the act who manifested the utmost interest in the exercises.

The object of the meeting was the dedication of the foreign mission work of Miss Mary E. Thompson, of Franklin, Ind., and the opening address was made by Dr. W. Dean, a missionary from China. He drew a picture of the condition of the perishing millions of women in China, India, Japan, and Burmah, who are yet to be taught the way and the life, and brought to Christ by the messengers of salvation. The sister who had announced her intention of going there and engaging in the salvation. The sister who had announced her intention of going there and engaging in the work would not be compelled now to go in the darkness of the night. Now there was no stealth in going there. She would find that the doors had been opened and the work made ready for her hand, and a kindly welcome awaiting her. She would find friends there. The foundations had been already laid and the labor well under way. He thought this mission effort could not be carried on by better hands than those of women, for it has, been often and truly said that "woman was the last at the cross and the first at the sepulchre," and a task too hard or a sacrifice too great for woman had never been found.

Now that he was ready to return to his field and his wife in China, he had been asked to take charge of Miss Mary E. Thompson, and he had gladly accepted the trust. He had made up his mind to oversee her career, and not only that, not one woman alone could depend on him, if she was devoted to winning souls to Jesus, but dozens and scores might command his services and rely on his experience, his care and his watchfulness over their paths, and their work in the far-off land to which Miss Thompson had directed her eyes.

The audience sang the hymn, "What have you done for me?" and then

AND DR. TALMAGE.

At the regular weekly prayer-meeting at Plymouth Church last evening, Mr. Cook, from the Committee on a Pastor, said that they had almost nothing to report. It had been learned that Mr. Talmage would be in this city Dec. 5, and would then speak in Plymouth Church, but it was also entirely sure that he would not be here until that time. One of the members of Plymouth was supposed to have heard Mr. Talmage last Sabbath, and a committee of three were to sit under him the 39th of the month. Mr. Cook added that he had vesterday received several very strong and favorable letters to the effect that Dr. Burton, of Hartford, was just the man for the pastorate of Plymouth. He had, however, done nothing about the matter, and did not propose to, inasmuch as the Committee deemed it their duty only to gather information, and not to take upon themselves the province of the church in the selection of a pastor.

The afternoon session, from 3:30 until 5 o'clock, was consumed in reports and the discussion of publications and Sabbath-schools, which drew out many valuable statistics and some important information from different delegates. This evening the subjects under discussion were reports from home missions, sustentation, and freedmen. Special Dispatch to The Tribune.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 18.—The Synods, North and South, of the Presbyterian Church began their business session to-day at the North Synod. L. M. Gilleland was received as Commissioner from Michigan, and the Rev. Jesse Syke appointed to represent Indiana at the Michigan Synod. The session was almost wholly taken up with hearing and discussing tyports on the different branches of charged work. The colporterage system was recommended to the churches for prayers, and contributions, and adoption wherever it was found practicable. The Rev. B. W. Chidlaw addressed both Synods upon the importance of Sunday-school work, claiming that every child in the land ought to be reached by it, and suggesting that the name of the gathering be changed from "the Sunday-school" to "the Nibe Class." The judgment of censure by Fort Wayne Presbytery against the the ESY. A. G. Martin for unministerial conduct show that the Church is in an exceedingly healthy state and the cause progressing everywhere. At the South Synod an assessment was made upon Presbyteries, for contingent expenses, of an average of 40 cents on every member. The report on Home Missions show that there are 1,655 missionaries in the field. In reference to the Sunday-school work, it was determined to hold a synodical institute in Columbus next May, as a part of the Synod work. At night both Synods listened to a sermon, or address, by President Tuttle, of Wabash College, upon the pioneers of Presbyterianism in Indiana prior to 1835. L. G. Bartlett, the new pastor of the Second Church, was received into the Synod to-day.

War News from Europe. An Important Advance in Breadstuffs and Greater Strength in Provisions.

FINANCIAL.

The growing probabilities of war in Europe were carefully observed and discussed in Chicago yesterday, and had their effects here as elsewhere. Gold and stocks followed the fluctuations in New York, and wheat experienced a considerable rise. The country orders for currency have began to fall of, and are considerably below the average of last week. This change in the current is variously explained as due to the fact that the amount of wheat in the country is much less than has been supposed, and as due to a tacit movement to hold the crop back to realize the higher prices that would rale if hostilities break out on the other side.

There is a steady demand from the country for rediscounts. The general supply of paper at the banks has become better, and the usual report is now that discount lines are well maintained. The Board-of-Trade applications for accommodations are not pressing, but the offerings of commercial and miscellaneous paper are more liberal, and an active feeling characterizes the loan market.

Rates of discount are 8@10 per cent to regular customers. In special cases special rates are made. On the street business is quiet. Rates are 8 per cent and upwards.

8 per cent and upwards.

New York exchange was sold between banks at 750@31.00 per $1,000 discount. The clearings were $4, 100, 000.

New York exchange was sold between banks at 75c@$1.00 per $1,000 discount.

The clearings were $4,100,000.

THE PRESS ON THE COMMERCIAL SITUATION.

The Pittsburg Gazelle says: "Produce back of us is rapidly reaching here, and in return our wholesale merchants are filting an increased number of orders for all kinds of goods." The St. Paul Pioneer-Press of the 11th records a very large movement of produce during the week, creating an active demand for money, the millers requiring over $20,000 daily for sending to the country, exclusive of the demand for the home trade. Receipts of produce had largely increased. The Kansas City Times of Thursday says: "The principal streets of the city have presented a scene of activity that reminded one of five or six years ago. Retail trade has been very satisfactory indeed, while among jobbers the movement of general merchandise has been heavy in volume and extensive in territory supplied. Collections have been excellent, showing that the retail trade in the country is good." The St. Louis Republican of Friday chronicles an active movement of produce and a quicker demand for money. According to the Globe-Democrat of Thursday, almost all lines of trade showed increased offerings of commission receipts, and sales of products, grains, groceries, dry goods, cotton shipments to and from this market, tobucco, etc., all required money. The country demand was also active, taking out of the market large sums in currency shipments. Receipts by checks also were liberal, denoting prompt country collections. The Baltimore Sun says: "There is more than a moderate business reported, and in all branches of trade the feeling is hopeful and encouraging." The Boston 6100s speaks very encouragingly of the improving prospects of the manufacturing interests of that quarter.

**EANKING IN BOSTON.**

The general reduction of the profits in banking at the present time is reflected in the lower dividends which now prevail. Only by the best financial management can good dividends now be hoped for, for th

bor. Up to last April, as was started by Mr. Charles B. Hall, at the Bankers' Convention, 200 banks had wound up their affairs and gone out of business, and up to the same time 400 banks had surrendered their circulation. These facts show the lessened requirements of business, and the necessity for continued watchfulness on the part of the banks to keep their resources from becoming stanant.—Boston Advertiser, Oct. 13.

Mr. Elizur Wright has opened the books for subscriptions to the Massachusetts Family Bank, incorporated by the Legislature in April last, —a savings bank with a life-insurance function. It is the first company of the kind in existence, but the principles on which it is founded have been well considered, and the corporators themselves have, no hesitation in risking their good names upon the experiment. The charter provides that all trans-actions of the bank shall be in the gold coins of the United States, and no paper or promissory cur-rency can be received or paid except at the market value of such coins at the time of receipt or pay-ment.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The effect of the Euro-New York, Oct. 18.—The effect of the European advices on the Wall street market was very marked, and there was a strong rise in gold exchange and tooks. In the gold room the excitement was in the early in the day, and an unusually large business was done at a rapid advance in the premium. The opening sale was at 110%, and under an active demand to cover short contracts the price rose to 113%, while at one time in the general furry as high at 113% was bid without sales. Subsequently the excitement subsided sales. Subsequently the excitement subsided somewhat and there was a reaction to 111, followed by a recovery to 111%, with the latest sales at 111%@111% cash. Gold was scarcer, and closed flat to 1-16 per cent per diem for use. There were flat to 1-16 per cent per diem for use. There were some large transactions at from 113 to 113%, the Germans being heavy beyers.

Governments were strong and higher, in sympathy with gold. Railroad bonds were firm, especially for St. Paul and Northwestern consolidated. The stock market was active and buoyant, with great excitement at different periods to-day. The advance in the leading shares was to 13%, with the greatest rise in coal stocks. The immediate cause of the advance in the general list, especially in the trunk line shares, was the prospect of a war in Europe, which would bring with it a very active demand for breadstuffs, hog and beef products, and other articles which conprospect of a war in Europe, which would bring with it a very active demand for breadstuffs, hog and beef products, and other articles which contribute largely to the traffic of these roads, which is already heavy in consequence of the active movement of grain from the West to the scaboard. Again, to-day it was asserted that the railroad war was in progress of settlement, and would soon be adjusted, which also had its influence. The sharp rise in the coal stocks was brought about by a ramor that another combination was about to be formed, which frightened the bears and caused a general rush to cover short contracts. The greatest advance was in Delaware & Hudson Canal, which rose from 69 to D2½, and reacted to 75. Delaware, Lackawanna & Western followed, rising from 73¼ to 80½, and finally reacting to 77½ $\Phi_{\text{C}} 78. active, though very nervous and unsettled all through the session.

The extent of the impression made by the news may be partially gauged by a glance at the extent of the change wrought in prices. Gold was quoted 3c higher, wheat advanced 5%c, corn 1%c, pork 45c per brl, and lard 20c per 100 bs. All fell back somewhat after the first blush of excitement was over, but the impression remained. A good deal of embarrassment was experienced, but only one suspension was reported. That was a firm that has followed wheat on the short side, from 85c upwards, and was unable to respond to the call for margins when the market touched $1.17 for November. The firm of Ranney & Ingils has long seen regarded as one of the most upright and bonoble on the Board of Trade, and met with general sympathy in the misfortune. The amount of the loss could not be definitely ascertained; it is believed not to be much in excess of $25,000.

There was a quiet dry-goods market at stendy prices. Groceries were in good demand, and were firmly held all around, though coffees and sugars showed the greatest strength. Teas are quiet, and the prospects of an early advance are not so cacouraging as they were a fortnight ago. Sirups are moving freely at former prices. No new features were noted in the butter and cheese markets. The former is meeting with a steadily-good demand, while the latter is neglected. Dried fruits were noted in the butter and cheese markets. The former is meeting with a steadily-good demand, while the latter is neglected. Dried fruits were noted in the butter and cheese markets. The former is meeting with a steadily-good demand, while the latter is neglected. Dried fruits were nominally steady. Fish were ordered with considerable freedom by the interior trade, and both lake and salt water descriptions were held firmly. Jobbers of oils reported a quiet market. Prices of lard, linseed, carbon, and turpentine were firm. The coal and wood markets were dell. Leather was fairly active and strong. Bagging remains without animation.

The wholesale market was sparingly supplied with cargoes and rather quiet in consequence, though there was considerable inquiry at the ruling prices, and several sales were made. The ruling prices, and several sales were made. The demand at the yards continues very good, and prices are tolerably well adhered to, the light receipts and probability that they will continue so to the end of the season making retailers less anxious to realize, and therefore not so willing to shade prices. Drugs and chemicals were in the usual good demand, and generally steady, castoroil being firmer. The wool, hide, and seed markets were firm under a fair inquiry and moderate offerings. Potatoes were dull and easier under liberal offerings of poor stock. Poultry, game, and eggs were unchanged.

liberal offerings of poor stock. Poultry, game, and eggs were unchanged.

Lake freights were very quiet, and nominally stronger, carriers asking 5c for corn to Buffalo. The excitement in the speculative department was so great as to leave the freight department almost deserted, and the charters reported will only take out 115,000 bu corn, all on through rate. Rail freights were firm at previous rates, at 20c per 100 bs to New York, 25c to Boston, 18c to Philadelphia, and 17%c to Baltimore, with few cars offering. Through rates by lake and rail were quoted at 15c to Boston and 14c to New York on corn.

HOG PRODUCTS—Shared in the excitement, though hogs were in good supply at the Stock-Yards and quoted 1/20 per b lower on light grades. There was an active demand at the outset, chiefly for year or December product, and small offerlags, under which the market advanced rapidly, but buyers held off at the top, and then sellers became more free, which resulted in a part of the advance being lost. The inquiry for lard and pork was chiefly from the short interest, in fear of a radical advance in case of a war in the Old World.

MESS PORK—Was in urgent request early, chiefly for seller the year, which advanced 45c per brl, fell back 55c, and closed firmer at 27½ above the latest price of Tuesday. Old for this month was quoted 10%15c higher, and there was little change in the price-of new for present delivery, and no apparent demand for it. Liver, and there was little change in the price-of new for present delivery, and no apparent demand for it. Liverpool was quoted ad higher on brime mess. New for pork, though Liverpool was reported 9d per 112 % lower. Our market salvanced 1756, fell back 1256, and closed 100 above the latest prices of Tureday. New for immediate delivery was about 5c higher, and there was no material change in old, the price of which is dependent chiefly upon the fact of a large shortage for this month, with the condingency that two high figures here would bring out lard from other citles to fill the contracts in the market. The receipts were liberal and a larger proportion than usual inspected as No. 2, which gave rise to the romor that some medification had been made in the inspection. The offerings were large early, but there was less demand from the shorts, many of whom have covered within the past week, and several operators were out of the market, being drawn away by the excitement in other grain. The market declined 485c for futures and cash, with little doing except in ear lots of No. 2, which soil early at 50c and closed at 85c. LUMBER.

The market was rather quiet in consequence of the limited number of cargoes on sale. Pour or five sales were made carly, leaving but two or three cargoes at the docks. Prices were unchanged, being firm at $7.00 G7.25 for joists and seantling. $8.0068.50 for common boards and strips, and $9.00614.00 for fair to choice offerings. Lath were steady at $1.20, and shingles at $1.9062.25.

Lumber freights are firm. Many vessels have been laid up, the owners being unwilling to send them out at the current rates. Manbace is quoted at $1.50 and Maskegon at $1.25.

At the yards trade continues firm. Country orders are coming in freely, and the market is tolerably steady under roduced receipts. Quotations:

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 18.-In the Masonic Grand Lodge to-day a very earnest discussion was had on the point of order relative to the recognition of the colored Masonic Grand Lodge of Ohio. The question of their recognition was presented last year and laid over until this presented last year and laid over until this session. To-day the Committee on Jurisprudence reported the matter back with a resolution recommending the recognition of the colored Grand Lodge. A point of order was then made that, under the Constitution of the Grand Lodge, close resolutions were not in order except as amendments to the Constitution itself. The Grand Master overruled the point of order, and held that the resolutions were in order. An appeal was taken from this decision, and was sustained by the Grand Lodge, there being about seventy-five majority in favor of the appeals.

THE LUMBER DISTRICT. A GREAT DANGER HAPPILY AVERTED.

An alarm was struck from Box 227 at 9:51 An alarm was struck from Box 227 at 9:51 last evening. Box 227 being located at the corner of Archer avenue and Quarry street, within the confines of Bridgepott, it was to be anticipated that the fire would amount to something. Bridgeport, in the item of fires, murders, and casulties, has exhibited a notable excellence since the earliest times in the city's history. And when huge volumes of smoke rolled up and flames illuminated the whole of the South Side, making a brilliant cloud-spectacle for the people in quarters remote from the scene of the fire, the latter remarked, Lo! Bridgeport has once more asserted itself.

once more asserted itself.

Nor was the expectation disappointed. At exactly 10 o'clock a second alarm was sounded, and the attention of the yet disengaged members of the Fire Department was fixed rather anxiously upon the point where the destructive element could be seen at work more plainly every moment. The whole of the southern sky was lit up, and the smoke was increasing in density. It was no small fire—that was already established in the minds of the residents of the North and West Sides. As for the people in the neighborhood, they had all turned out at the first alarm, and were to a man busily engaged in looking on. All Bridgeport was in a tremor of delight; for there is something in a fire that seems to satisfy the unasthetic nature, and in this instance especially so, as the Bridgeporters seems to sarrary the unesthetic nature, and in this instance especially so, as the Bridgeporters had suffered so long and unprecedented a period of tranquillity. Boys and girls, youths and young women, old and middle-aged people, facked down that forlorn and at present dismantled Archer avenue to participate in the general ceremonies. The boodlums of that district hooted for very joy, and skinned about in their peremonies. The hoodlums of that district the hooted for very joy, and skipped about in their ceremonies. The hoodrums of that district hooted for very joy, and skipped about in their native innocence.

At 10:00 there was a third alarm, and by this time the streets leading to the scene of the fire were packed with human beings. The fire, which had started in the planing-mill of O. D. Wotherell, had spread to the adjoining mill of J. T. Heely, and threatened seriously the lumber yards which cover the whole of this territory, and extend in an unbroken line from Jefferson street to Ashland avenue. Both mills were speedily reduced to ashes, notwithstanding the efferts of the firemen who formed a complete circle about the yard. The box-factory of Henry Stevens, occupying the upper floor of Wetherell's mill, of course went with the others. There was a large quantity of lumber stored on the premises which was destroyed. Some of this belonged to C. C. Thompson, and the rest to Charuley Bros., who have a lumber-yard adjoining, and to Wetherell & Stevens. The flames reached over and did their best to cat up the lumber-piles across the street, but were prevented by prompt doses of water. The stable in the rear of Witherell's place went next, the horses which had been kept there having been taken out and saved.

Her port quarters, mainmast head, main-topmast, and a part of the fore-topmast are out of water... The Debroit Post says: "The upward-bound fleet which has just arrived reports the recent storm as one of the severest ever experienced on Lake Eric. Searcely a vessel has arrived or passed up but has arrived with her centre-board gone and the hull otherwise shook up. The schr Klvina has arrived with most of her head-sails so badly damaged that they had to go to the loft to be put in slape for another trip. The schr Young America had her foresail split and part carried away, and is securing a few minor repairs before proceeding further. Many of the fleet were compelled to seek shelter."

The Maggie Hunter foundered off that port hast Monday night, and carried with her to the bottom of Lake Ontario seven men. Friday afterneon the mate of the schr Marysburg, who had been mate on the Hunter, identified the wheel-cover, a box about three feet long and two feet wide placed over the steering-gear, as having been on the unfortunities chooner two trips ago. south of the line of the sidewalk, was the planing-mill of J. P. Healy. West of this were huge piles of lumber three or four deep, extending to the alley and south to the railroad track, and thence east to the yard in the rear of the frame building. On two sides of the block, cast and north, were lumber-yards full of inflammable material. On the south were the yards of Bell's packinghouse, the buildings being distant about 100 feet; and on the west, across May street, was a row of two-story frame cottages, 200 feet away. The block was bisected by a switch which curved through it from the main track to the river. All the buildings were wholly of frame except Healy's mill, the basement of which was of brick. The two mills were separated by an alley twomy-five feet wide.

was about 150 feet long by 80 wide, and two stories in heighth. The building and machinery was valued at $23,000, upon which there is an insurance of $6,000, the amount of an incumbrance. Their loss will approximate $20,000. Their loss on material will be about $5,000, not covered by policies. The second-story was eccupied by Henry Stevens as a bux-factory, one of the largest in the city, employing seventy-five hands. His loss on shock will reach about $2,000; insured for $2,000, and perhaps the full amount, as application was made for an additional $1,000 about a week ago.

The office was worth about $600, and the barn $1,000; neither is insured.

Was L-shaped—the main portion being 120x50, and the addition 60x60. The basement was of brick, and in it were the engine and boiler, which will, perhaps, not be damaged very materially. Mr. Healy bought the mill at Sheriff's sale three or four months ago for $5,000. It is said to have been worth $13,000. No work has been done in the nill for some time. He had no stock on hand, and estimates his loss at $3,000, and has an insurance of $1,000. No work has been done in the mill for some time. THE CAUSE.

The fire was first discovered by Fred Huck, the watchman at Wetherell's mill, and he says it seemed to have started in the northwest corner of the building, near the boiler-room. Its origin is unknown, but several attributed it to a hot journal. This is probably not true, as the mill shut down at 6 o'clock, and the machinery had over three hours and a helf to cool off. The cause, therefore, is likely to remain a mystery.

had over three hours and a half to cool off. The cause, therefore, is likely to remain a mystery.

POLICEMAN ALBERT RACE, of the Deering Street Station, who kurned in the alarm, through burry caught his right hand on the "slot" in the box and tore the flesh hadly. Subasquently while running along the railroad track he tripped over a rail, and fell and dislocated his thigh. He was taken to his home on Keeley street.

AT THE NORTHWEST CORNER OF THE YARD stood three or four large piles of scasoned lumber, the tailer one being about thirty feet high. This the flames seized, and working to the inside, to wich access was given by the inch spaces between the layers of boards, burned with the slow persistency which accompanies a fire among bales of coston. Two streams were directed constantly upon it, but the efforts of the firemen to subdue the flames were ineffectual, and when the reporter left the pile was being gradually consumed. A few yards to the west and north, on the southeast corner of Hickory and Many streets, stands a two-story house. The occupants did not seem to be at all flarrised. They looked upon the burning piles with the greatest nonchalance, satisfied that the force of the flames would be spent long before the lumber-piles, which stood as a wall between the house and the main body of the fire, could be at all affected.

Some 300 or 400 yards west of the burning lumber-piles two lecomotives, steam up, stood on the main track of the Alton Road in readiness to haul away the cars which were standing on the switches to the south of the scene of disaster, in case the wind changed. Fortunately, no such contingency occurred.

at the time of the breaking out of the fire was blowing from the southeast, and carried the flames across Cologue street to Thompson's and other immense lumber-yards in the immediate vicinity, and made the fire hard to manage. Shortly after the third alarm was struck, the wind veered to the eastward, and thus, in a manner, checked the fire mal kept it from exiending into the district, which, for a time, was threatened. The citizens residing in the classic precincts of Bridgeport, as well as other parts of the city, flocked to the scene by thousands. A panic seemed to have scized many, owing to the fact that the sky was lighted up brightly for miles around over the city. The night was dark, and the gray clouds hung low, which made the reflection more vivid and lurid, and in the centre of the city it seemed for a time as though terrible destruction was going on.

The people crowded every conceivable spot about the vicinity of the fire. They clung to rails and rafters, and stood on the huge lumber piles which abound in the vicinity. From the roofs, also, of packing-houses in the neighborhood vast numbers looked on. Brerywhere was to be seen a sea of humanity. The police only kept the crowd back from the firemen, so as not to retard their progress, consequently all of the streets and the open ground along the railroad track was occupied by long cordons of human beings, who stayed until almost the last embras had died away and the destruction was complete.

The alarm from Box 627 at 5:45 last evening was caused by a gas-pipe bursting under the sidewalk in front of No. 680 Milwankee avenue. Damage trifling.

RAILROADS.

THE BATTLE OF THE GLANTS. The meeting of the General Managers and General Freight Agents of the Eastern roads, General Freight Agents of the Basteru roads, which will be held at Detroit to-day, is not for the purpose of bringing the present railroad war to a close, or to make an advance in freight rates, as claimed by other morning papers and an Associated Press dispatch from New York. The fact that the New York Central Railroad will be represented at the meeting gave rise to the rumors that the railroad war is about to come to a close. It is now raging as fercely as ever, and there is not the least prospect that hostilities will cease before Vanderbilt has gained his point, namely: that the rates from the West to Pailadelphia and Baltimore are made the same as those to New York. Both Sout and diarrett will fight as long as they can against this demand, and they are not yet exhausted by any means. Vanderbilt's roads are all making long contracts at the present low rates, which shows that they intend to carry on the war during the winter. The Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad, Vanderbilt's line at this point, has notified its Western connections that they can make all the contracts they want at the present rates. The meeting to be held at Detroit is for the purpose of trying to consolidate the large number of fast freight lines now running over the various Eastern lines, which scheme was announced in The Tristinux a short time ago. The idea is to have but one fast freight line run over each trunk line. Nearly all the difficulties in the way of this scheme have been overcome, and some decisive steps will undoubtedly be taken at the meeting towhich will be held at Detroit to-day, is not for

IOWA CITY, 1s., Oct. 18.—Some time since the contract was let for the completion of grade of the Chicago, Clinton & Western Railroad from this city to Lenox, nine miles east of this city, at the crossing of the Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Northern Road. Ferguson, the contractor, gathered about a hundred men, teams, etc., on the work. He made bills wherever he could the work. He made bills wherever he could here for provisions, blankets, wagons, etc., agreeing to pay for them as he was paid by the Company. A few days ago it was ascertained that he was thus consuming a large portion of his monthly estimates, and his men struck for their pay, and on the 15th inst. the amount of money coming to Ferguson would only pay his men 56 cents on the dollar. This incensed the men, and Ferguson had to keep shady for a day or two, and the city authorities had to feed his men. The Company have bounced Ferguson, settled with the men, and put them on the work again. It will be pushed to a rapid completion to this city within the next ten days.

THE NEW NORTHWESTERN DEPOT. The managers of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad Company have decided to commence the erection of the new depot at the corner of the erection of the new depot at the corner of Wells and Kinzie streets without any further delay, and the foundations will be put in this winter so that the superstructure may go up early next spring. It has been decided to build the depot large enough to accommodate all the various divisions of this company heluding the Wisconsin and Milwankee Division. The railroad bridge at Kinzie street will be torn down during the winter and a large double-track structure erected in its place. The Company has not yet definitely decided upon the plan for the new depot. It will, however, in all probability be similar to the one of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Philadelphia, with the main front on Wells street. Mr. Marvin Hughitt, the General Manager of the road, is now in the East inspecting the principal depots in the various Eastern cities, and, as soon as he returns, which will be in a few days, the plans will be definitely decided upon and the contracts for the work given out.

RUN OVER AND KILLED.

Special Dispatch to The Tribune.

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 18.—A frightful accident oc curred this forenoon on the Chicago & Alton Railroad, between the rolling mills and the Railroad, between the rolling mills and the State Penitentiary, a short distance north of the city limits, resulting in the death of two persons, Mrs. Rosa Gleason and her daughter Lizzie, a young lady 13 years of age, both of this city. The mother and daughter were waking home from Lockport on the track, and when near the place mentioned above were overtaken by the passenger train of the Chicago, Pekin & Southwestern Railroad, due here at 11:25 a. m., which road runs from here into Chicago on the track of the Chicago & Alton, ran over, and instantly killed. The train was approaching the city at its usual high rate of speed, and the engineer sounded his whistle as a signal for the women to clear the track, but in attempting to do so one of the old lady's feet was caught between the bars of a cattle-guard and she was thereby held fast, unable to move. Her daughter fiew to her assistance, but was unable to extricate her mother from her perilous position, and both were struck by the engine and mutilated in a shocking manner, Lizzie being thrown some twelve or liftcen feet down an embankment. The old lady's face and head were crushed to a jelly. Coroner Campbell was notified at once, and an inquest held, the jury returning a verdict in accordance with the above facts, and exonerating the engineer, George Miller, and the railroad company from all blame in the sad affair. WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 18.—The tenth annual meeting of the Society of the Army of the Tennessee was held this morning, at Lincoln Hall. About 125 members were present, together with a large number of spectators.

Gen. Sherman, the President of the Society, calling the meeting to order, said to day was set apart more especially for the unveiling and dedication of, and for the unfuriling of the banner from, the McPherson monument; but ner from, the MaPherson monument; but previous to this, there would be several hours for the transaction of business pertaining to the

The meeting was formally opened with prayer by the Rev. Mason Noble, of the United States Navy, and committees were appointed to nominate officers for the ensuing year, to designate the time and place for the next meeting, and to select an orator for that occasion.

A note was read from the private Secretary of President Grant, saying that it would give the latter great pleasure to meet again and take by the hand such of his associates of the Army of the Tennessee as may be pleased to call upon him at 9 o'clock, Thursday night. The invitation was accepted, as was also an invitation to visit Mount Vernon to-morrow. Letters of regret were read from Gov. Hartranft and Gens. Pope, Dix, Wright, Newton, Crook, Augur, and Townsend, Commodore Am-men, and others.

Gen. Sherman said that he bad received a telegram from Lieut. Gen. Sheridan, requesting him to give his best love and undying respects to the society. Gen. Sheridan was unavoidably kept at Chicago by public duties, but his heart was present with the Society.

A letter was also read from Gov. Hayes, of Ohio, regretting that important public duties prevented his attendance. Gen. J. B. Hood, who commanded the Con-reviewed by President Grant. On the route a number of residences and places of business were decorated with flags, and every point whence a view of the procession could be obtained was occupied by spectators.

AT WPHERSON SQUARE the crowd was so dense that it completely cut off part of the procession that was on foot, and it was with great difficulty that members of the Society could make their way to the grand stand. The statue was covered with a large American flag. On the stand were the President and members of the Cabinet, Gen. Sherman and his staff, and the following: Admiral Porter, Gens. Schofield, Humphreys, Dunn, Whipple, Van Vliet, Park, Benet, Vincent, and other invited guests of prominence. Among others of members of the Society of the Army of the Tennessee were Gens. Hickenlooper, Charles Ewing, W. T. Clark, Poe, Macfely, Belknap, Vandever, Force, Tilson, Kinney, and Buckland, Cols. Dayton, Auderried, Markland, Brush, Barnum, Noble, Lyuch, Wells, Bacon, Loomis, Deimling, and Majs. Dunn and McArthur.

THE CEREMONIES.

Gen. Sherman called the meeting to order.
The Rev. Mr. McCarty, a retired Chaplein of the army, offered prayer for the continued prosperity of the Government. The grayer was followed by sacred music by the Marine Band.
Gen. Hickenlooper was then introduced by Gen. Sherman, and delivered an address concluding with the following remarks:

And now, with thanks to you personally. Gen. And now, with thanks to you personally, Gen.
Logan, for the thought which prompted its execution, we transfer to your carea statue significant of unparalleled heroism, characteristic daring unselfish patriotism, and gentle demeanor of our loved humented commander, Maj.-Gen, James B.

UNVEILING. The statue was then unveiled, with cheers from the crowd, music by the Marine Band, and firing of guns in Lafayette Square.

Gen. Sherman then introduced Gen. John A. Logan, who delivered an eloquent tribute to the memory of Gen. McPherson. The orator was frequently interrupted by applause, and at the conclusion of his address was warmly congratulated by the distinguished persons on the platform.

frequently interrupted by applause, and at the conclusion of his address was warmly congratulated by the distinguished persons on the platform.

The band then played the "Centennial Exposition March," and the crowd slowly dispersed. The statue is an equestrian figure, heroic in size. It is mounted upon a massive granite nedestal, handsomely designed. McPherson is represented as viewing the field of battle. He grasps the check-reins of the horse on which he is mounted in his lett hand, and his right hand holds a field-glass, which he appears to have just removed from his eyes.

**EVENING MEETING.**

The Society of the Army of the Tennessee held a meeting to-night at Lincoln Hail. Capt. Phelps, one of the Commissioners for the District of Columbis, welcomed the members as "brave men, whose deeds form a part of our national history." The song of "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, Was then sung, when Gen. Thayer, who commanded in the Army of the Tennessee, delivered the annual address. He trusted the time would never come when the issues of the War would be forgotten. We earnestly long for fraternity and reconciliation, but not at the expense of national honor, not by the surrender of the objects for which the nation marched through the threes and convulsions of civil war to a final triumph. There will be reconciliation when in every State service in the Union ranks shall no longer be the badge of dishonor, and service in the Lost Cause shall no longer be the condition to preferment. Peace will follow unqualified recognition of the results of the War and unreserved adherence to the amended. Constitution and practice of justice. The places made waste by desolation of the struggle will be made to abound with plenty, the wounds left by the conflict will be healed by the benign influence of peace, and the sunshine of prosperity will rest upon all our borders.

These and other kindred remarks were enthusiastically applauded.

Calls were made for President Grant, who hesitated, when Gen. Sherman could make a better sp

An audience, respectable both in appearance and numbers, listened to the lecture of Theodore Tilton, in McCormick's Hall, last evening, on "Master Motives." There were about 800 people present, a third of whom were ladies. The "master motives" of humanity were love, hate, jealousy, envy, malice, patriotism, etc. The American people, he said, had but one thing in common, outside of a flag and a people of the said of the sai nation, and that was fashion. Against it there was no argument. It was based upon vanity, but if indulged with good taste, economy, and simplicity, it reconciled and unified society.

The Rev. Dr. James Dekoven made the address, opening with a high eulogiam upon Dr.

Locke and his efforts on behalf of St. Luc's and the suffering and stricken poor. It was an the suffering and stricken poor. It was an hospital, not of one but of many parishes, the one work that the churchmen support unanimously. Any one who supported such a work was doing something that would entitle him to a great reward when he was called upon to answer for the deeds done in the body. He hoped that all had thoroughly taken in the reports and their statistics. For twelve years the institution had done its work, and had been decided by the Supreme Lodge as entitled to the degree, either by service or merit, should be so recognized.

It was decided that the District Deputy Grand Chancellors had no inherent powers, and could only perform such acts as were delegated to the degree, either by service or merit, should be no recognized.

and sympathy, and affection, and yet comes the startling fact that there was a deficit of $2,500. It seemed to him almost incredible. Such a charity was a city's work, and he entered upon an eloquent description of cities and what they breed and represent, and concluded with a pathetic plea for aid.

At the conclusion Dr. Locke added a few words, to the effect that he had almost given up hope, but he felt that the Lord would help. The creditors were becoming clamorous, and he urged that those who were interested in the institution would contribute as liberally as possible in aid of its suffering finances.

The choir sang the offertory, "In the Beginning," and Dr. Locke pronounced the benediction.

GRAIN INSPECTION.

GRAIN INSPECTION.

COMPLAINTS OF THE VICTIMS.

A TRIBUNE reporter went around among several of the grain and commission men yesterday for the purpose of following up the line of inquiry into the alleged errors in the grain inspection. From what follows, most people will probably make up their minds that the allegations are pretty well founded.

The first man visited was Mr. H. A. Towner, of Rumsey Bros. & Co. In respone to the reporter's inquiries, he told how, trequently, a lot of new wheat out of one man's crop would arrive here, and be inspected as old No. 3, new rive here, and be inspected as old No. 3, new No. 3, and new No. 2, when there really was no difference in the wheat. Rejected wheat was sent here and inspected as No. 2. The mistakes mere more noticeable and more frequent in barley than in wheat, for the reason that barley is such a peculiar product that a man has to be educated up to it to in-spect it properly. To filustrate the errors in inspecting barley, Mr. Towner said they had barley sent to them which they could have sold on the track for SO cents a bushel. When it came the track for 80 cents a bushel. When it came to be inspected it was inspected as No. 3, and No. 3 barley in store was worth only 49 cents. He had known samples of No. 3 barley that sold at 80 cents, and yet the same barley was worth in store only 46 cents. The man who bought this barley had to pay, on account of this error in inspection, about 30 cents more than he would have had to pay for barley in store. The great trouble was that THE INSPECTORS WERE INCOMPETENT.

The office was a political one and a refuge for promoted ward politicians. The good Inspectors who used to be in office had cleared out, and would have nothing to do with such a set of

The office was a politicians. The good Inspectors who used to be in office had cleared out, and would have nothing to do with such a set of incompetents. On a recent tour of inspection, Mr. Towner had found one Inspector decidedly under the influence of liquor, and his appearance indicated that the habit was confirmed. If the matter were in the hands of the Board of Trade there would be a class of Inspectors who knew something about grain. The real man among the Inspectors was Mr. Parker, and it was more than suspected that Mr. Parker was alling, and so incompetent that he ought to be retired to private life.

Mr. M. H. Foss, another commission man, was visited. He said if he had time he could tell enough to fill three Tribuyes, and then not exhaust the subject. As an instance of the way the inspection is made, he said they had some wheat shipped to them from Minnesota in June. It came down and lay in the mill all summer, and became heated. The parties in Minnesota ground some flour and sent it here and sold it at $2 a barrel. The Inspectors very curiously decided to call it new No. 2 wheat, when, instead of having any grade at all, it was more proper to call it stump-tail. Wheat that weighed fifty-eight and one-half pounds had been inspected as No. 2, when there was really a difference of 30 cents between these two grades. Barley came here, and graded No. 3, and when that harley was worth 82 cents, as inspected, they had sold its for $5 cents by sample. One day they had LOST THE GRADE ON SEVENTEEN CARS through bad inspection. Mr. Foss entertains very little respect for the abilities of Mr. Parker. As to Chief-Inspector Smith, he says that gentleman does not pretend to know anything about grain, and is simply the figure-head of the inspection. Mr. Foss also thinks the inspection. Mr. Foss also thinks the inspection. He had no confidence in the inspection of Trade, who would see that intelligent, competent Inspectors were appointed.

Mr. J. G. Smyth was of the same general of Trade, who would see that intelligent, competent Inspectors were appointed.

Mr. J. G. Smyth was of the same general opinion. He had no confidence in the inspection of grain as at present carried on. He had just seen two samples of wheat. One was said to be Northwestern, and had been graded No. 2, while the other was graded No. 3. Here was a difference of fully 20 cents in favor of the No. 3. He hoped the thing would be taken out of politics, and ddn't think that because a min had been influential in causing the nomination of Gov. Beveridge he should be placed at the head of the grain inspection, especially when he didn't know a thing about grain. He thought there was need of reform in this particular at least.

of McDermod & Oertel, said he had stacks of of McDermod & Oertel, said he had stacks of letters from customers complaining of the errors made in inspection, but he did not feel authorized to give the letters, or the names, for publication, unless he had their permission. He instanced several cases where mistakes had been made in the inspection very similar to those already referred to. The great uncertainty as to inspection here, and the errors made so often, brought the inspection into disrepute everywhere and operated directly against the interests of Chicago. Until the inspection was taken out of the hands of politicians and left to the Board of Trade, there was not much chance of improvement. Mr. Oertel has no very favorable opinion of Mr. Parker, whom he considers grossly incompetent. "He knows as much about inspecting wheat as I do about inspecting silk," said he. Among the reformes that were certainly very much to be desired in this Centennial year, was a thorough and sweepingseform in the grain inspection in this locality. nial year, was a thorough and sweeping reform in the grain inspection in this locality.

Gov. Beveridge he should be placed at the head of the grain inspection, especially when he didn't know a thing about grain. He thought there was need of reform in this particular at least.

Another firm, not far from the Chamber of Commerce, said the same thing, in substance, but didn't want their names to appear in print. It might hurt them with the inspectors, and they preferred to keep on the right side of the moved that the reading of them to the Society would take a considerable time, and, therefore, inasmuch as the members would get them when printed, he moved that the reading be dispensed with. The Association then entered into a low was not heavy the same thing, in substance, but didn't want their names to appear in print. It might hurt them with the inspectors, and they preferred to keep on the right side of them.

MATRIMONIAL.

TRUMBULL-BORDEN. The marriage-bells rung merrily at Oakland last evening on the occasion of the marriage of Mr. John H. Trumbull and Miss Mary Borden, at the residence of the bride's parents on Lake avenue, near Oakwoods. The ceremony was avenue, near Oakwoods. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Warren, of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, at hali-past 6 o'clock. The happy pair were supported by Miss Hattle Pierce, Miss Josie Borden, and Miss Carrie Trumbull as bridesmads, and Mr. Frank Rumsey as groomsman. Messrs. William Borden and Perry Trumbull acted as ushers. The bride and her maids were dressed in white silk and muslin.

After the ceremony the guests were led to a supper furnished by Kinsiey, after which they danced to the music of Hand & Freiburg's parlor orchestra. The house was finely decorated with flowers. The presents were both numerous and costly.

At a late hour Mr. and Mrs. Trumbull left on their wedding trip, to be gone three weeks, dur-ing which time they will visit the Centennial, Niagara Falls, Saratoga, New York, and other places of interest Niagara Falls, Saratoga, New York, and other places of interest.

Among those present were Judge and Mrs. Gary, Judge Van H. Higgins, Dr. and Mrs. Hammill, George and Mrs. Trumbull, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rand, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hitchcock, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Butterfield, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Charley, Burt, Prickett, Sargent, D. B. Shipman, H. H. Handy, and Walter Trumbull, Mrs. John M. Douglas, Mrs. Pope, Misses Hills, Sargent, Burt, Pierce, Hollister, Patterson, and Miller, and Messrs. Goodrich, Pope, Hills, Brackett, and a large number of other friends of the married parties.

THE CITY-HALL.

The annual review of the police force will be made this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Lake-Front grounds.

Engine No. 2 of the West Side Pumping Works was set in motion yesterday and ran as well as does the other. The Mayor yesterday approved the $3,000 bond of B. Harrington, contractor for the grad-ing and paving of Townsend street, between Oak and Division streets. The winter season approaching, the theft of furs and fur goods is daily on the increase. The Chief of Police notifies all fur-dealers of the fact and warns them to be more careful.

Fire-Marshal Benner has prepared a draft of an act providing that 8 per cent of the money paid the city by the foreign insurance companies —2 per cent of the net receipts—be set aside as a pension fund for disabled or worn-out fire-men. He will try to have the axt passed by the next Levislature. next Legislature.

next Legislature.

The following building-permits were issued yesterday: W. Springer, tool-house, 30x76 feet, Nos. 54 to 68 South Clinton street; M. Weishauser, two three-story stores, 24x65 feet each, corner of Hurlbut and Sophia streets; Potter Palmer, a one-story building, 39x76 feet, on Adams street, near Wabash avenue.

The practical benefit derived from the adoption of the new time-table for the lighting and extinguishing the street-lights can be readily seen when it is stated that the expenses for street-gas in September, 1875, ware $22,263, and for September, 1875, $14,430, all of which shows a saving of $7,833 per month by the adoption of the new time-table prepared by Prof. Elias Colbert.

By some unaccountable means, a report has been spread at the City-Hall that an extravagant gas-bill for the City-Hall's illumination in the month of September had been audited. The report, being untrue, should be stopped, and it needs only a glance at the figures to convince any one that the bill was not extravagant. That for the month of September was $307; Angust, $179; July, $180; June, $191; May, $252; and April, $363. Ald. Stewart and McAuley have been talking to Mesars. Billings and Watkins, the gas men, in regard to the price of gas. Mr. Billings has made a proposition similar to the one which he made to the Council, viz.; he will ask $3 per 1,030 feet for the gas, and the city can adopt any burner and time-table that they may see fit. He says that he will not back down, and will fight unless his proposition is accepted. Mr. Watkins thinks that he should be allowed as much per 1,000 feet for his gas as Mr. Billings is for his. Ald. Stewart was yesterday inclined to think that Mr. Billings' proposition should be accepted. Not that any action of the courts might favor that gentleman, but he had always been allowed half-a-dollar more per 1,000 for gas than Mr. Watkins, and it seemed but just, owing to the longer line of pipe, laid in a less profitable section of the city, etc., that the allowance should still be made. To light the West Division with oil would engender the wrath of some citizens, who would join in the cry for gas at any cost. In regard to Mr. Watkins the opinion is expressed by some that he is really aiding the city to put the grindstone to Mr. Billings' nose with the hope that the latter gentleman will seek redress in the courts. Then if Mr. Billings is successful, Mr. Watkins can be as high-priced as he chooses, whereas if Mr. Billings is not successful in his fight, Mr. Watkins' position will remain unchanged.

THE COUNTY-BUILDING.

The Grand Jury yesterday disposed of a num-ber of minor cases. The body will adjourn only when it can sit no longer under the law. Bailiff Sweeney, of the Criminal Court, while on duty yesterday, was relieved of a new hat by some interested student of the proceedings in the Sullivan murder case.

Judge Wallace is now issuing naturalization papers at the rate of over 100 per day, and still citizens of the Great Republic. George I. Hoffman, who expects to be elected to the office of County Commissioner on the Democratic ticket, was around yesterday lookng the ground over and getting acquainted. Sheriff Agnew has a few weeks left of official life. At the expiration of his term he will turn his attention to rectifying and will become the partner of Golsen. His subordinates, it is said, are thinking of colonizing in the Black Hills country under the care of his chief clerk and confidential friend, P. W. Dunne.

Mr. Senne, the Republican candidate for Commissioner Busse's seat in the County Board, is making his canvass in the spirit of "Reform," and announces that if elected he will work for $2.50 per day,—the amount to which he is entitled under the law, in his opinion. The present members draw $5 per day, the estimate of their worth having been made by themselves with considerable doubt as to their authority in the premises.

The Hospital Committee were talking matters and things over yesterday in a desultory way, when it came out that some years ago the evangelist, Moody, was an applicant for the position of Warden of the Hospital, proposing to do the work without pay. It further appeared that about the same time Commissioner McCaffrey attended Moody's Sunday-school, when his innocent nature was first sweetened by candy-prizes for good behavior from the evangelist's capacious pockets. What a change has come over both of them! Moody, the teacher, has developed into the great evangelist, and McCaffrey, the candy-loving street urchin, the dutiful Sabbath-school scholar, has grown to an altitude surpassing his most sanguine expectations,—County Commissioner!

Tip Farrell, the notorious confidence man, was sent to the Armory last evening, thanks to the care and attention of Detective John Ryan. Farrell was wanted for confidencing a farmer, but it is thought that he cannot be con victed on that charge. Henry Thomas Dressner, a diminutive boy of 12 years of age, was arrested last night at the Michigan Southern Depot by Detective Steele. Dressner ran away from his parents in New York about a week ago, taking with him $500 in money. The lad acknowledged the theft, but asserts that he lost all but $50 of the money by Buffalo thieves.

Detective Heinzman yesterdny arrested a young man named Charles W. Pitt, who was captured for playing a rather neat game upon his father, a prosperous farmer in the suburbs of Beloit, Wis. Some time ago the old gentleon beloit, wis. Some time ago the old gentle-man was robbed in a mysterious manner of $400 in United States bonds, and soon after the son started for this city. Then came a note saying that if a draft for $150 to an anonymous party in this city was forthcoming immediately the stolen bonds would be returned. The draft was sent, and at the same time was also sent a was sent, and at the same time was also sent a dispatch to Supt. Hickey, and the result was the arrest of young Pitt, when he presented the draft at a prominent bank yesterday. The eider Pitt will undoubtedly be greatly astonished to learn that his red-haired son was the thief, as well as his anonymous Chicago

How He Was Taken In and Cared For. Special Dispatch to The Tribune.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 18.—A letter from an officer of the United States steamer Frankin, dated off the coast of Portugal, gives the details of the order received by the comm of that vessel from the Navy Department relative to Tweed. The letter says that the tele-gram requested the Consul to detain any United States Government vessel passing out of the straits until orders could come from Washington. A few hours later a dispatch from the Secretary of the Navy ordered us to remain at Gibraltar for further orders. The next at Gibraltar for further orders. The next day came telegraphic orders from Washington to proceed to Vigo, communicate with the United States Minister, and receive Tweed on board, place him under strict guard, allow him no communication with the crew, and upon arrival at New York to allow no communication with the shore until instructions shall be received from the Navy Department as to his final disposal.

A postscript to the letter, dated "Vigo, Spain," has the following additional: "We climbed the hill to the castle, but admittance was denied us, because the Government had given orders to allow no communication with the prisoner. The people generally are opposed to giving the old sinner up, but the Government had no hesitation in taking him, upon the arrival of the bark from Cuba with the fugitives on board. The Governor of the Province went on board and found the Boss in his shirt-sleeves, barefooted, in the midst of scrubbing deck. The old Boss looks quite jolly, and has brass enough to last him 100 years. He will be confined to the cabin during the whole passage, and whilst in port an officer is always present with him."
